Stevenson Says He 'Could Not Accept' Nomination

Democratic Race Thrown Into Scramble

By The Associated Press
Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois plunged the scramble for the Democratic presidential nomination yesterday by announcing that he "could not accept" a bid to become his party's standard bearer.

The development came as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower rolled up a 150,000-vote victory over Sen. Robert A. Taft in a test of strength in the New Jersey primary election.

In Paris, Eisenhower said he was "very proud" of the outcome. Some of his supporters said it meant the five-star general would not have to undertake an all-out campaign to win the Republican presidential nomination against the hard-stumping Taft.

Gov. Stevenson's "could not accept" announcement apparently slammed the door on efforts to boost him as a counter to the front-running Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

But at least one party chieftain seized on the fact that Stevenson said "could not" instead of "would not," and declared that if the Democratic national convention stamped for Stevenson—as the Republican national convention stamped for Wendell L. Willkie in 1940—it would be difficult for the governor to refuse the nomination.

Kefauver promptly hailed the announcement as "very favorable" to his own candidacy and invited Stevenson's supporters to "switch to me."

Stevenson had led the field in terms of delegate strength for the forthcoming Democratic convention in July, although Kefauver was far out in front in popular votes in the various state primary contests.

Based on statements of delegates pledged, favorable or instructed to vote for a specific candidate at the convention, Stevenson had 54, Kefauver 40, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota 23, and Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma 8.

The immediate effect of Stevenson's withdrawal was to remove a potentially formidable contender and thus throw the gates even wider open for new entries—and touch off a behind-the-scenes scurry to find another stop-Kefauver candidate.

On the Republican side, Gen. Eisenhower rolled up a popular vote of more than 382,000 against 225,000 for Taft and 22,000 for former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, in Tuesday's New Jersey primary.

Percentage-wise, it was Eisenhower 60.6 to Taft's 35.8 per cent. Eisenhower also won 31 of New Jersey's 38 GOP delegates. Taft got 4 and Stassen one. Two were uncommitted but reportedly leaned to Taft.

With about one-third of the 1,206 GOP delegates chosen so far, the indicated strength of the two rivals—based on pledges and leanings—stood at Taft 206, Eisenhower 119.

Surprise Awaits This Lady

Nashville, Tenn. (AP) — When Mrs. B. O. Briley comes home, is she going to be surprised?

She has a new roof on her house and it won't cost her a penny. You see, a roofing company crew got mixed up in which house was to get the roof.

Mrs. Bernice W. Cunningham ordered the roof for her house several days ago. When the workmen failed to arrive as expected, she called the roofing firm.

An investigation showed the roof had been installed, all right, but on Mrs. Briley's house. The two houses are similar in appearance and are near each other.

More Mass Graves

London (AP) — The touring American congressional committee investigating the Katyn Forest massacre heard testimony yesterday indicating there is at least one other—and possibly more—mass graves of slain Polish officers.

Denver (AP) — The leaders of three major oil worker unions said last night their men will strike April 30 if a satisfactory wage settlement is not reached by negotiations.

Kiwanis Club To Provide Free Transportation To Polls For Primary Election

Strodsburg Kiwanis Club in conjunction with the national organization's "Ballot Battalion," will furnish free transportation service to the Primary election polls on Primary Day, Tuesday, April 22.

The club's promotion is being carried on under the direction of Kiwanis Public and Business Affairs Committee. Arrangements are in the hands of Eric Schuchard, a member of the committee.

Transportation service will be available to voters living in Strodsburg, East Strodsburg and Stroud Township from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Any person unable to obtain transportation to the polls is urged to call the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Strodsburg 380, extension 500, and a car will be available for transportation both to and from the voting place in the district where the voter lives.

Air Force Finding It More Difficult To Lure Men To Fly New Types Of Aircraft

Washington, (AP) — The Air Force told Congress yesterday it is getting more and more difficult to persuade American youths to man new types of combat aircraft.

It added that Russia is luring its best youths into flying duty by offering almost double pay and other benefits.

This testimony came from Air Secretary Finletter and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, ranking Air Force officer. They appeared before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee checking on the extra pay given servicemen for "extra hazard" duty—flying, submarine duty and parachute drops. There have been charges of abuses of this pay system, and some members of Congress have been talking of reducing the extra pay.

Army's New Tanks Ready For War Duty

Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md. (AP) — The Army demonstrated its new M-47 medium tank yesterday and disclosed that it now has "many, many tanks ready for issuance to troops."

While officials of this big Army proving ground did not disclose the number of the new 48-ton mediums ready for combat, Col. C. G. Wilhide, commander of the Detroit Tank Arsenal, told reporters the Army now has more M-47s than there are of "all types of United States tanks in Korea combined."

The colonial, visiting here, commands one of the two plants that build the M-47.

In Washington there was an impression that the new tank would be issued to troops in Korea but officials in charge of development and production seemed surprised at this.

One official said far as he knew there is no additional requirement for tanks in Korea.

M-47 tanks which were put through paces for reporters yesterday seemed to be rid of "bugs" which plagued early production models.

There was no indication when the Allies might be ready to reopen the prisoner issue. The talks have been in recess since April 4, to allow the two sides to develop means of breaking the long dead lock.

Dr. W. L. Ervin, 75, died of the disease he himself diagnosed last February—cancer of the liver.

He had the "no visiting" sign taken off his door shortly after his diagnosis was confirmed in a Memphis hospital. He liked people.

"Ain't much visiting time left for me, anyway," he said.

When he returned home March 9 to await death, many of his patients—rich and poor, white and black—dropped by to see "Ole Doc."

Many who couldn't visit wrote letters. And when newspapers told of the doctor who never sent bills, mail came from every state in the Union.

Some letters held checks from patients he had long forgotten.

The largest—for $100—came from a couple whose child he treated when they were on the financial rocks 25 years ago.

One of the smallest payments was sent by an old Negro woman in Louisville, Ky., who mailed a "widow's mite" of $2.

Money was the least of Ole Doc Ervin's worries, long as he got by. But when he had to go to Memphis, about 140 miles north of here, word got around he was low on cash.

A couple of days later, a gift of $2,000 came from his patients and friends in Sunflower County, where he had practiced 33 years.

Doc Ervin couldn't stop the rush of tears. "Best people in the world, black and white," he said.

Friends said George was interested in scientific experiments.

Truman Held At Blame In Steel Crisis

Washington (AP) — Senator Bridges (R-NH) accused President Truman yesterday of being the principal creator of the crisis that led to seizure of the steel industry.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, in an apparent preliminary to a government grant of a pay raise over the heads of the companies, conferred separately with President Philip Murray of the CIO-Steelworkers and President Benjamin Fairless of U. S. Steel Corp.

Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall ruled out anew any such steel price increase as the $12 a ton the companies have said they would need to cover the government-recommended pay raise which is the nub of the dispute. He said they would get "nothing" as a price for peace though he has said all along they can have some $3 a ton under regular stabilization rules. He took his stand in a National Press Club luncheon speech and defended it later in a Senate hearing.

There was a walkout at a Republican Steel plant in Cleveland in an effort to hasten action on pay.

Inland Steel Co. took a new tack in efforts to get an anti-seizure court order, seeking a declaratory judgment that the action is illegal. Several companies are asking an injunction in Federal court here. Inland chose its home grounds at Hammond, Ind., for the test.

A group of Senate Republicans offered a resolution for a Judiciary Committee investigation of the seizure, which Bridges called an act of "usurpation" that has "raised the gravest constitutional question since the war between the states."

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) proposed taking a faster route to an expression from Congress. He offered an amendment to forbid use of any of the money in a pending appropriation bill to enforce seizure. He said it would provide a "clear vote" even though none of the money in the bill apparently is set up where it would be tapped for the steel operations.

And Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) injected into the Senate talk a pointed discussion of Congress' impeachment powers.

Altogether the rapid-fire developments pointed the boiling steel controversy toward a new and violent eruption, with the blast most likely to come when the government moves on pay.

When government-sponsored negotiations for a company-union settlement in the controversy collapsed Tuesday night, Sawyer announced he would go "promptly but not precipitately" into the pay and working conditions question, as President Truman had empowered him to do.

Speaking through President J. M. Hill, the board said it was "against" jointure.

"We took a stand last December," Hill said, "and nothing's changed since then."

Hill told the PTA men that the school district had one million dollars worth of assets and only $90,000 indebtedness, of which some $9,000 was to be paid off this year.

"Why should we pool our assets with some other district?" Hill said.

Another board member, Clyde W. Shaffer, said he thought jointure would mean a considerable increase in millage, but did not elaborate.

Flory told him it was just such background information on what jointure would mean that the PTA was after.

Hill asked what district East Strodsburg could merge with. "Not Strodsburg—they're bursting at the seams already."

Flory stressed again that the PTA was after information, and was not proposing merger with a specific district, nor even a merger, unless it would be of advantage to East Strodsburg.

School Board To Explain Stand Against Jointure

East Strodsburg's School Board agreed last night to sit in special session with the borough's PTA representatives and explain the reason for its stand against jointure.

The agreement followed the appearance of Jesse Flory, chairman of the PTA's jointure survey committee, and Michael Hannon, PTA president.

No date for the meeting has been set, but it was expected that the board and PTA would agree on a time shortly.

PTA's study of the advantages or disadvantages of a possible jointure with some other school district has been under way about a month. So far the check has been mostly on how jointures have been working out in other parts of Pennsylvania. There are about 320 such jointures in the state.

Flory asked the board for no action, and did not propose any jointure with any district at last night's session.

He confined himself to pointing out that there is "a problem" to be faced in the borough, and PTA was as interested as the board in possible answers.

Several times Flory found it necessary to remind the board that PTA was not proposing a jointure, but was trying to find out whether one would help the borough.

Speaking through President J. M. Hill, the board said it was "against" jointure.

Dikes Still Defy Rampant Flood Waters

Omaha (AP) — President Truman air-toured middle America's flood disaster area yesterday and found a Missouri River straining mightily—but still unsuccessfully—to smash Omaha and Council Bluffs, Ia., with the worst flood in their history.

Upstream and downstream, the "Mighty Mo"—mightier than white man ever has seen her—was having its way.

Still packing the power of a thousand locomotives, the swollen marauder engulfed new thousands of acres and flooded or threatened now towns as the crisis area moved southward.

But at Omaha and Council Bluffs there was defiance. The line of defense ran along 23 miles of levees which had never been expected to get such a test but which in recent days had been bolstered by a hastily-recruited army of 8,000 men.

The Omaha River level passed the 28-foot mark, nearly four feet higher than ever previously recorded, with the levees still holding. The crest-maximum flow—is due at 10 tonight.

Ghostly vacant but still safe behind the hastily-bolstered levees lay nearly three-fourths of Council Bluffs, a city of 45,000, and sections across the river including East Omaha and Carter Lake, Ia.

The homeless, nearly 40,000 in Omaha and Council Bluffs, were among some 100,000 the Red Cross says have been displaced in the Midwest by rampaging waters of the Missouri, Mississippi, Red River of the north and the Milk River in Montana.

The Red Cross last yesterday boosted its nine-state estimate of families affected by Midwest flooding to 28,583—or some 114 thousand persons.

"It's time for action, we've fooled around long enough," said President Truman as he sat down in Omaha to discuss the flood control problem with Midwest governors.

As he spoke, the Mississippi River at St. Paul neared its all-time high crest with 5,000 homeless and property damage estimated by Mayor Edward K. Delaney at upwards of 10 million dollars.

Little added damage was expected at St. Paul and Red Cross crews and Army amphibious vehicles moved downstream to Winona, Minn., where a dike failure could inundate one-third of the city.

Downstream points in Wisconsin and Iowa braced for record assaults in the near future.

At the twin cities of Fargo, N. D., and Moorhead, Minn., the Red River of the north appeared ready to crest some 17 feet over flood stage.

President Truman accused an economy bloc in Congress of "wiping out some of the most important projects" he had recommended in his annual budget. And he said he will renew demands for a huge national flood control program including insurance against flood damage.

"It is not necessary for these things to happen," Truman said grimly after he had flown over mile upon mile of farmlands submerged by the rampaging Missouri River.

Trapped by the swift rise of Missouri flood waters, Cooper said he called intermittently for help but no one heard him. He could hear motor boats going by but there was no way to give a visual signal from the enclosed attic.

With only three cans of beans and two bottles of milk for food, Cooper had to cling to the rafters after flood waters reached the ceiling below.

"I lost all track of time," he said yesterday.

Cooper's son found his father and removed him by boat after learning the elderly man was not at the home of a daughter across the river as he had assumed.

The son said his father apparently suffered no ill effects other than weakness and some shock.

Morton Weldy Tells Club Of Middle East

Morton Eugene Weldy, lawyer, educator and world traveler, outlined the situation in the Middle East before the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club at the Penn-Stroud hotel yesterday afternoon, during which he pointed out the terrible mess in which the world is today.

Presented by Eric Schuchard, program chairman, Mr. Weldy told how Egypt tied in with the general world situation, mistakes made, the Russian power and declared the United States needs all the friends she can get. Not power alone, but a spirit of cooperation is essential if this world is to continue to exist, he said.

The speaker said the trouble in Egypt originally was a local scrap. However, as a result of World War Two, seething unrest exists among the underdog throughout Asia and Africa which is growing day by day. He told of King Farouk being back in the saddle which could help this country if we can get him on our side.

Mistakes made by the representatives of this country were pictured as serious, also the economic pressure which is being used in dealing with other nations. He showed how spirit of cooperation could have improved conditions in many areas.

A delegation of the club went to Scranton last night to participate in the 35th anniversary of the Scranton club.

President Gilbert L. Smrz commended Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlson and his committee on Support of Churches for the fine observance of Good Friday through the cooperation of business and other service clubs. He said he believed more people went to church that day than probably ever before.

Mr. Schuchard asked club members to furnish cars to carry voters to the polls at the primary election next Tuesday. The response was encouraging. Penn-Stroud hotel will be headquarters.

Tickets were disposed of for the Mask and Zany Club play, "She Sings to Conquer", April 24 and 25 at the college auditorium and announcement was made of the Anna Logan Society dance Saturday night, May 10, for the benefit of Monroe County General Hospital.

Bob Hellmann was song leader with Numa J. Snyder at the piano. John E. Watt gave the invocation.

Guests welcomed by the president were Joseph Greco, Mauch Chunk; John Hughes, Allentown, and Joseph P. Klatzkin, North Bergen, N. J.

The monthly meeting of the directors will be held at the Penn-Stroud hotel Monday, April 21, at 4:30 p.m.

Shocks at 5:30 and 8:30 a. m. apparently were confined to this immediate area.

Men Confess Long List Of Burglaries

The incredible story of a string of daylight burglaries stretching from Georgia to Monroe County was told to State Police in Stroudsburg yesterday.

The tale developed during the day-long questioning of Reginald Albert Cope, 45, Portland RD2, Tenn., and Orland T. Benson, 34, Etowah, Tenn.

The pair was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace William N. Walton, Stroudsburg, for the Monday afternoon burglary of the Fred R. Ducklue residence, Stroudsburg RD3, and for carrying concealed weapons.

Benson had used one of the pistols to fire a shot at Pfc. Ed Beneski and Cpl. Carson Overgard Monday while the two troopers were driving the prisoners to the Stroudsburg substation, police said.

He had concealed the weapon in his sock, police said, and it was wrested from him before either trooper was wounded.

After hearing the charges yesterday, both men pleaded guilty and were ordered held in the county jail for grand jury action.

After arraignment the two were taken to the Stroudsburg substation for further questioning.

Much of the afternoon's investigation was by Beneski; Pfc. Alex G. Kearns; Lt. Fitz Harris and Det. C. P. Hughes of the Delaware State police, and Det. LaMar of the Wilmington, Del., city police.

Also present was Sturgis Fay, Wilmington resident who identified some of the items seized in the truck driven by Cope and Benson when they were arrested Monday.

Northampton County police also had their turn at the two. Portland Police Chief Jesse Felker and William Hantz, Nazareth, assistant chief county detective, left the barracks, they said, with a confession of the burglary of an Upper Mount Bethel home.

Police alternated in interrogating the men. The three Delaware officers, who arrived in Stroudsburg in the morning, spent hours with the pair, questioning them about recent burglaries in and around Wilmington.

After they were through with the questioning, the Delaware men said the following story had emerged:

Benson said he met Cope in Atlanta when he hitched a ride less than two weeks ago.

The two started to work their way north, sticking mostly to main highways.

As they proceeded, they would "hit" houses along the highway which appeared to be vacant.

The pair said all the burglaries were daylight jobs.

At night they would put up at a tourist court or motel, then drive on the next day.

They couldn't remember getting much cash, they said. The loot taken included guns, clothing, appliances, lighters, cameras, radio-phonographs and items they could dispose of for cash.

As they reached each large city along the route, they would visit pawnshops to dispose of stolen goods picked up en route.

Cope, a thin, sallow man with lined, stubby cheeks, exhibited the better memory of the two as police doggedly pried them with "Where?" "When?" "Morning or afternoon?" "The big white frame house, remember?" "Before or after you left Wilmington?" "What did you do with the stuff?"

Benson, a hefty, black-haired man beef-dark from sun and exposure, apparently tried to remember where he had hocked the things police queried him about.

"Ah deelah," he said in his Tennessee drawl. "Ah can't remember. Ah been drunk since January 8th. . . ."

Police nailed down one after another break-in with steady pointed questioning. The two men could set no definite number. They said they could not remember all the places.

The number would probably run in the dozens, police said.

When Benson had difficulty remembering where he had pawned the goods taken from houses along the way, Det. Hesser asked patiently, "Well, can you remember how many times you went into a hockshop?"

"Ah done it so many times . . . how can Ah remember?" Then, referring to a shotgun stolen from one home, Benson recalled abruptly, "Hey! Ah didn't hock that shotgun in Philly! Ah sold it in a gun shop."

But he couldn't remember the location.

On Easter Sunday the two stayed at a tourist camp near Lambertville, N. J., then started north again the following morning.

ing, according to Chief Felker. Between Lambertville and Easton, the two told him, they "hit two places." Felker said these cases will be turned over to New Jersey police.

Coming on from Easton, the pair stopped at Upper Mount Bethel Township, they told Felker. There they broke into the summer home of Leonard Harris, Brooklyn, N. Y., through a rear door.

When they left, Benson and Cope took with them a radio-phonograph, suit of clothes and a trench coat, according to Felker. They told of trying to take a cumbersome TV set, but changed their minds.

Just an hour and a half later the truck stopped in front of the Ducklue residence a few miles north of Stroudsburg on Route 611.

Benson broke in through a window. His discovery by Mrs. Ducklue, and his arrest by Cpl. Overgard near Mount Pocono followed.

Why Vote Next Tuesday?

Why vote in the primary election April 22?

Approximately 7,111,000 persons over 21-years of age lived in Pennsylvania in 1948 and asked themselves a similar question before the presidential election. Only 3,745,119 went to the polls. The remaining 3,375,815 either couldn't or wouldn't find enough of a reason to vote.

But Pennsylvania was not alone. Starvation of the ballot box was a nationwide phenomenon. Of some 95,000,000 eligible Americans, only 48,836,579 voted. It seems almost incredible that a Democratic government can rest on such a narrow base of public support.

Those who stayed away from the polls in Pennsylvania and elsewhere helped brand us as being only half-hearted about civic responsibilities and the conduct of our government. They also gave some credence to the belief held in many foreign nations that we preach democracy abroad without practicing it at home.

To men who love liberty, those who starve the ballot box are no less despicable than those who stuff it. Ballot boxes starved or stuffed result in false elections. They set false government on wrong courses. They place great power into the hands of little groups.

Small elections are big opportunities for those who are incompetent and for those who are corrupt. The final result, however, can only be the death and decay of democracy. Today, the alternative to democracy is dead certain. It is the slavery of Communism, or its twin sister, Socialism.

We urge you to vote at the coming primary. We urge you to seek out your neighbors. The bread of democracy is the vote—a meager crumb for the magnificent fare freedom affords us. Our nation depends on a healthy, well-fed ballot box. Vote April 22.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—Navy flyers have been publicly accused by at least one Fair Deal propagandist, Drew Pearson, of hiding on the poop deck while the Air Force fights the war in Korea.

Secretary of the Navy Dan Kimball's recent trip to the Pacific, and his public utterances concerning the Navy's willingness to mix with the Communists, were mainly to restore the flagging morale of Navy airmen that resulted from the published accounts accusing them of not doing their share in the fighting.

The facts are that Navy airmen have blasted more targets in Korea, and fired more rockets at Communist troops and tanks, than the entire Pacific fleet fired at the Japanese during World War II.

Of all the combat air missions flown since the start of the Korean War, 40 per cent have been Navy and Marine missions.

Pearson's allegation that Navy flyers can't take on Communist airmen is based on the phony charge that the Russian MIG flies 150 miles an hour faster than the best jet flown by the Navy. The truth is that the MIG flies 45 miles an hour faster than the Navy J-48 jet, not 150.

Of more importance, the MIG is designed and flown as a fighter. Navy jets are built to operate from aircraft carriers, and are designed for a variety of missions including dive bombing. They are heavier, tougher and better armed than the MIGs. In addition, the J-48 jet engine now in use in Navy planes will be vastly improved by mid-summer, but even so Navy pilots still will not be called on to perform dog fight missions against Red pilots. That is the mission of Air Force pilots at the moment in Korea, a mission that is determined not by Navy airmen, who have never displayed any reluctance to tangle with the Reds, but by the United Nations command in Korea.

The Navy has been rocked back on its heels by the charge that it is not doing much fighting in Korea. Veteran airmen can't understand why the accusations are being published or who is behind them. And they are stunned when the accusation is based on a comparison of Navy and Red jets, since the same comparison reveals that Air Force jets are inferior to the MIGs in many respects. Yet Air Force pilots manage to clobber the Reds in dogfights daily.

Inter-service wrangling is at a minimum at the Pentagon now. Pearson's attempts to stir up trouble will only damage the nation's security. And it is especially dangerous at this point, when jet engines are undergoing combat tests and production experts are working overtime to iron out the bugs and to secure the best fighting machine for all service flyers. At present, the Navy and Air Force exchange jet engines constantly. Experts in both services test and fly jets produced under the supervision of the other air arm. In fact the one place where service integration works best is in Navy and Air Force jet engine procurement.

Despite this, efforts are being made to destroy this cooperation. The results have been a lowering of Navy flying morale with the resultant trepidation on the part of parents of Navy flyers in Korea who read the phony allegations and have no way of determining the truth. For their sake the Navy should be permitted to tell the story of its jet fighters in Korea. They are capable of handling anything the Communists toss at them, but Defense department restrictions prohibit a courier attack on the Navy's phony critics.

Recently the House of Representatives deleted from the Defense department bill, funds for the construction of another super aircraft carrier. One is already under construction. The Joint Chiefs of Staff authorized the Navy to start construction of another. To the Pentagon's surprise, the House turned down the request. The Navy is bound to abide by the Congressional decision and in lieu of another super carrier, probably will place two World War II carriers on full duty.

Both of the nation's top field military commanders, Gen. Matthew Ridgway and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, have sought additional aircraft carriers for their respective theaters. In rejecting the Navy's plea for another super carrier, members of Congress did considerable soul searching.

It is difficult for Congressmen to ignore the advice of competent military authorities who appear before appropriations committees. They are the first to admit this, and the first to offer prayers that they are right when rejecting pleas from the men charged with the nation's defense.

Two out of every three persons in West Virginia are supported directly or indirectly by the coal industry.

Back in Business

Eggs and pork are two items on the housewife's shopping list that lately have been dropping back to price levels she can afford.

Things were beginning to look better for people, say, who like a hearty breakfast of ham and eggs.

But, cheese it, boys, the cops! The Agriculture Department says it now will start buying up pork and eggs.

Why? To prop up the prices.

Examine Examiners

Psychiatric examinations have been suggested to determine the leadership aptitudes of the heads of all French political parties.

In view of the insecurity of French public officials this makes sense. A fellow is inclined to fret if he knows his job is going to be taken away from him momentarily.

Hippolyte Martel, president of the Federation of the Good People of France, who made the suggestion, would go a step further.

He would have a panel of citizens examine the psychiatrists before they start examining the politicians.

Who would screen the panel of citizens, H. Martel does not say.

The vicious piranha fish of South America are so scared of one another they will try to escape through glass walls of a tank when two or more are put together.

The dodo bird, a large flightless pigeon that used to live on the island of Mauritius, became extinct during the 17th century.

BIG EGG-ROLLING IN 'WHITEWASHINGTON'

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

What book do you think had the widest distribution of any book published in America in 1951?

"The Bible, of course, had the biggest sale. . . . 'Kon Tiki,' 'Mr. Smith,' 'The Forrestal,' 'We Barely,' 'The Fifty Year,' in Baseball,' all were best sellers.

But none of them came anywhere near the popularity of another book which, incidentally, is celebrating its 125th anniversary this year.

The book was created by John Walker, of Stockton-on-Tees in Great Britain.

It is three-inches long, tipped with potassium chlorate, antimony sulphide, gum and starch. It has a cover made partly of pleated sandpaper.

The name of the book is — the Match Book.

The reason I am telling you this is that it is a pretty good poser. You can spring it at a party or on any friend.

Ten to one he won't be able to answer it, and thus you will appear very smart and considerably superior to him or her.

When he has gotten over his admiration for you, you may tell him: "Because," said Miss Lawrence wistfully, "I want someone to nudge."

Broadway Bandwagon: The Ray Malones, he's the showstopper, were quietly abrogated. She got it in Fla. . . . John Murray Anderson, director of many Broadway clix, is seriously ill. . . . Ray Middleton and Nanette Fabray may get the leads in Arthur Klein's next tune show, "Look Ahead." . . . Eileen Herick lost her heart again. He's a Lieut. with the Air Force. Happened in Haiti. . . . Bill Langford and Signe Hasso, co-starring in "Love from a Stranger," play it off stage, too. . . . L. B. Mayer's coin is backing Monte Proser's musical version of "Casablanca," due in the Fall with Pinza and Dietrich. . . . Big story is being readied, attacking 52nd Street. The authors will allege that only one spot isn't a clip-joint. . . . True Mag's next will publish a letter on White House stationery (signed by Gen. Harry Vaughan) that should make the headlines. Due Friday.

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

Campaign by Silence - - The leadership principle developed by Mussolini and Hitler was based upon the Nietzschean idea of the superman. Their concept was that some men are endowed with qualities that are beyond the human. They are in fact men-gods.

Under the leadership principle, the evidence of such superiority is that it exists. It was never necessary for Hitler to explain why he was the leader; it was sufficient that he was the leader. He asserted it.

In the United States, this leadership principle has never been accepted. Americans have never, even as regards George Washington, been willing that one man is so far above his contemporaries that he stands alone and aloof. History might do it for a man's reputation as it has for Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, but the man himself could not assert that it was so while he lived.

It is important to take this into consideration in relationship to the plan of General Eisenhower to be silent on current problems until after he shall have been nominated. The assumption that it is possible to campaign by silence can only be an assertion of the leadership principle, namely, that General Eisenhower is a superman, over and above all other men and that he need make no explanations with regard to his desire to be President.

If General Eisenhower's managers sold him that idea, they have done him a grave injustice, because no man, in the United States, can be placed on such a pedestal. General Eisenhower, if he wants the Presidency, will have to explain what he believes, what he proposes to do, what he favors, what he opposes. Otherwise, men will say that he fears to speak out.

The suggestion has been made that when General Eisenhower comes to this country on June 1, he will go to Abilene, Kansas, where he will sit, waiting for delegations. Those who manage his campaign forget that a hundred or more newsmen, photographers, radio newscasters, etc., will also be camping on his front yard, and that these men — and there will be a few women among them — will be asking questions daily and will be telephoning and telegraphing stories to their wire services and their newspapers and they will be speaking over the radio.

Abilene will become a busy spot for news, if Eisenhower settles there for a month. No politician will reach that town without the reporters knowing what he is there for.

And these reporters will ask the General lots of interesting questions. For instance, a Southern reporter might want to know what General Eisenhower thinks of a national, compulsory FEPC. The General might answer that that should be left to the states, but such an answer would get him into hot water with large segments of the Northern population.

A CIO reporter might ask him what he proposes to do with the Taft-Hartley Law, or national legislation for increased safety in mines, or whether cost-of-living escalator clauses should be compulsory.

Texas, California and Louisiana reporters will want his views on tidal oil.

An A.F. of L. reporter might inquire into Eisenhower's ideas concerning the arresting of the inflation and the relationship of GATT (an international trade and tariff agreement) to certain American industries which under such tariff arrangements cannot compete with European industries exporting into the American market.

Some of us who are interested in foreign affairs might put a proposition such as this to Eisenhower:

Granted that the United States should give aid to nations with which we are associated, should that aid be granted on the basis of their necessities or on the basis of our capabilities? With a budget reaching $100,000,000,000 how much aid can we afford to grant without impairing our own economy? With a depreciated dollar, down to 53 cents, based on a 1935-39 average, can we afford further to depreciate our dollar by increasing our national debt and lowering our purchasing power?

The next President of the United States, whoever he may be, will have to deal with that one problem every day that he is in the White House. It is the crucial question of American survival and it cannot be dodged because the budget forces it upon us. Every candidate should be asked to discuss this, so that the people may judge how each one stands on it. Silence adds no wisdom to that.

Try And Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

Al Shean, famous as the partner of Mr. Gallagher, was also the man responsible for making Harpo Marx a silent comedian. Shean scripted the first vaudeville act for the then-unknown Marx Brothers, and inadvertently forgot to write in a part for Harpo. When Harpo indignantly called the omission to his attention, Shean hastily explained, "I did it on purpose. I want you to play in pantomime. I've got a feeling you'll be terrific." Mr. Shean didn't know how right he was!

Incidentally, one of the first towns to see the new Marx Brothers turn was Waukegan. In the orchestra pit, a kid named Kubelsky played the fiddle, and doubled up with laughter every time Groucho opened his mouth. Today, some thirty years later, Kubelsky is still laughing at Groucho. Now, however, he is known as Jack Benny.

Hollywood

—by Gene Handsaker

Hollywood - "Any time there's hell to be got on a picture," said Henry Weinberger, "I'm the guy that gets it."

Henry belongs to that fraternity of leather-junged gents, the assistant directors. They belong "Quiet!" when a take is about to start. They see that visitors don't trip over cables—if they haven't previously shoed visitors off the set.

They notify the actors when to report for work next day. They notify the front office if the actors are late. They attend to such tiny details as this:

On "The Snows of Kilmanjaro" set the other day, where I met Henry, Hildegard Neff did not have make-up on her hands when the scene was ready to start.

"Why didn't she?" Director Henry King asked Weinberger as a body-makeup woman daubed Hildegard's hands with light-softening pancake.

"Because she'd have got the make-up on her black dress while she was waiting," Henry returned promptly. "You've got to have the answers," he told me a little later.

"I'm the heavy," he said. "If I'm associated with a good picture, there are enough guys around to take the bows."

Here I am, writing about Henry Weinberger, when I suppose I really should be sore at him. He'd broken up my interview with Miss Neff—just so she could go to work acting in a movie. . . .

How many shades of blonde are there, for goodness' sake? Somebody has computed that Marilyn Monroe has worn her hair in these shades in various month, he won't be bustin' out all over. He insists that, while his hat will be in the ring, his microphone and running-shoes will not be there until the convention is over. This can make him the most sensational candidate in history: a convention-drive candidate who WON'T TALK. We would have liked the letters between Ike and Harry to have read as follows:

Dear Harry: I once said I would not become a candidate for the Presidency unless there was a clear call. Unless I have been opening the wrong mail and misinterpreting signals this is it. To use a song from Oklahoma: "I Can't Say No." Inclosed find my application for inactive status. I am late getting into the fight, but look what the Giants did in the last few weeks of the 1951 pennant race.

No greater honor can come to a man than to be asked to run for the Presidency. I cling to my belief the office should seek the man, however. And I do not think the man should carry beacon lights and radar to help the searching party. Consequently I shall not look for the nomination in the spirit of a man joining a circus, trying to add pop to a clambake or demonstrating Indian headgear. I have fulfilled my duty in Europe and I loathe to ride two directions at the same time. Hence my request to be released to the old Abilene club.

Incidentally, Marilyn says "most women dress for other women. I dress for men—and myself."

If you're seen Dave Willock and Cliff Arquette's plate-glass comedy routine on NBC-TV, here's a trade secret. They appear to be carrying a 6-foot length of glass which would be, of course, invisible. Well, they hold a 6-foot length of thread between them. Keeps them the same distance apart as they pretend to grapple with the glass.

36 Civil Cases Listed For Court Term Beginning May 11

Trespass Suits Take Up Most Of Calendar

A fairly heavy list of 36 civil cases is set for the next term of court, beginning May 11 in the courthouse, Stroudsburg.

All but six of the actions are trespass cases, mostly involving suits over traffic accidents. Five are assumption actions, usually the result of differences over contract agreements. One is a scire facias sur judgment.

On the trial list prepared by Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts James Gould, there are three cases dated from 1947, two from 1949, 13 from 1950, six are 1951 cases and 12 are 1952 actions.

The list:

Lois Mowry, now by marriage Lois Isaacs, vs. Stein Beer Co., a Pennsylvania corporation, trespass.

Phillip Abrams vs. Walter R. Dutter, defendant; Frank J. Reilly, John A. Repetz, as additional defendants, trespass.

E. C. A. Bullock vs. Rowena B. Stevens, assumption.

Hortense B. Hewitt vs. Stroudsmoor, Inc., trespass.

State's Voting Rolls Drop To 4,700,383 For Primaries

Harrisburg, Pa.—A statewide registration survey showed yesterday a total of 4,700,383 voters are eligible to participate in Pennsylvania's April 22 primary election.

This figure represents a drop of 103,717 from the 1951 registration. The reduction is attributed largely to the annual check of registrants at the various county seats.

Under Pennsylvania's permanent registration system, a voter's name is dropped from the rolls when he fails to cast a ballot in the last two elections.

The 1952 Democratic registration figure disclosed the greatest decline from last year. The decline totaled 90,155. The Republican drop amounted to 11,429 persons.

The registration figures represented reports from 66 of the State's county election bureaus. The tabulation is still incomplete in Lackawanna County.

The 1952 registration figures compared to 1951:

	1952	1951
Republican	2,860,137	2,871,566
Democrat	1,855,487	1,945,642
Others
combined	54,739	56,892
Total	4,770,383	4,874,100

The registration rolls were closed on March 1 for the April primary. The rolls will be reopened again after the primary for the Nov. 5 general election, with Sept. 13 as the last day to register.

(In Monroe County, the decline in registration was announced some time ago as 728—representing a loss of 670 Democrats, 44 Republicans, 13 non-partisans and one independent. Current registration figures are as follows: Democrats, 9,481; Republicans, 6,695; non-partisans, 460; independents, 36; Prohibitionists, 6; Progressive, 1; total, 16,379).

Borough Okays Third Street Storm Sewer

Stroudsburg Council last night authorized the borough engineer and solicitor to proceed with final engineering and legal matters on a project to install adequate drainage from Fifth St. to Second St. on N. Third St.

This drainage problem, one of the more pressing in the borough, has on many occasions created flood waters which entered the Worthington Mower Co. plant and its grounds where it hampered operations.

Listed by the borough a year ago, it will now be pressed with whatever funds can be obtained under the budget at this time.

Bids will probably be authorized at the next regular meeting of council on May 7.

Engineer Edward C. Hess said that the drainage line, part of which will cross under Worthington Mower Co. property, will cost an estimated $5,350.

In order to catch and direct the water in drains, curb and guttering will be necessary as well as a new surface from Fifth St. to Second St. Cost of this phase of the project will be about $9,000, making the total project outlay $14,350.

The Kimball and Gill report contained a wealth of material in support of airline service to the Poconos prepared by the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce.

In addition, verbal testimony was given by R. LeRoy Dengler, of Mount Pocono, before the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington during the hearing on All American Airlines request for renewal of its Pennsylvania permit.

Mr. Dengler's testimony was entered with Attorney George G. Shafer as his counsel. Dengler is president of Mount Pocono Airport Authority and Mr. Shafer its chief counsel.

"We are confident that merely within the confines of Pennsylvania there is a local air transportation market which has barely been touched—that today's passenger volumes reflect just a fraction of traffic which lies ahead," the report said.

Air Force Recruiting Week Planned

The U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Service and the A. B. Wyckoff Department Store have joined forces in promoting Air Force Recruiting Week, April 19 to 26, in the Monroe and Pike County areas.

Air Force Recruiting Week is designed to emphasize the need for volunteers to serve in the U. S. Air Force as airmen, aviation cadets, pilot observers, WAF (Women in the Air Force), nurses and medical specialists.

The theme being publicized nationally, was selected by the National Retail Dry Goods Association and the Department of the Air Force.

According to Arthur A. Widmer, advertising manager of Wyckoff's, the store will sponsor an attractive window display for the U. S. Air Force and in addition will offer Air Force information inside the store where patrons may obtain literature about the U. S. Air Force without cost.

Further details concerning this program can be obtained from the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, Stroudsburg Postoffice Building.

Lions of District 14-K to the number of 200 attended Deputy District Governor Sidney Effross night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel Tuesday night, all but two of the 21 clubs being represented.

Special honor was accorded District Governor Elton P. Hall, who was given a pen and pencil set by Lions International in recognition of the showing made by the district in membership gains during the annual Melvin Jones campaign in January. A three per cent gain was recorded. International Councilor Arthur J. Henry made the presentation. He said he had been deputy district governor when Mr. Hall was president of the Stroudsburg club and, the next year, he had appointed the local man deputy district governor for region B. From that office he went on to the district governorship. He said Mr. Hall performed great service in all instances.

Mr. Effross, on behalf of the regional clubs, presented Mr. Hall with a black onyx ring set with a diamond.

Mr. Effross introduced three employees of Mr. Hall, whose backing and cooperation made it possible for him to perform such service to Lionism, namely James H. Ottaway, publisher; Merle C. Ostrom, manager; and F. H. Brinkley of Ottaway newspapers and Radio Station WVPO.

Mr. Hall responded giving thanks for the courtesies accorded him. He said it was an honor to have the opportunity to serve. He added that he had tried hard to do a good job and he thanked all for the gifts presented to him. He said he was even more appreciative, however, for the greater gift that had been accorded to him, the friendship of a great many fine people.

President T. Manning Curtis of the local club opened the meeting, introducing Deputy Governor Effross, who presented Attorney Joseph O'Donnell, a Wilkes-Barre Lion, who acted as toastmaster.

Firman Bailey, county superintendent of schools of Lancaster, gave the main address. Robert Haigh, of the Stroudsburg club, served as song leader and Pat Reagle of the East Bangor club as pianist.

Members of Governor Hall's cabinet were presented and responded briefly. Among those called on were International Councilors Conrad Falvello, Arthur H. Nailor, Arthur J. Henry, George Smith, Paul Keller, Amos Strauss; zone chairmen, Harry Raymond, Bob Miller, Charles Scheer and others.

Clubs represented included Stroudsburg, Lansford, Bear Mountain, Barrett, Coaldale, Tobyhanna, Lehighton, Bath, Portland, Bushkill Valley, East Bangor, Richmond, Nazareth, Wilson Borough, West End, Pocono and Franklin Township.

A special guest accompanied former president Don Daugherty of Barrett, Mike McAndrew, 80 years of age.

In the main talk, Mr. Bailey declared that interest in one's community is a supreme duty of a citizen and the best definition of a community is that of a place wherein to grow. Lions Clubs, he pointed out afford opportunity for growth, and the club or the man, not growing, dies. On the other hand, the man who grows to full stature are the really distinguished citizens of the community.

Weller Denies He Accepted Appointment

Franklin E. Weller, past commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars, yesterday repudiated announcement of his appointment as chairman of the "Veterans for Eisenhower" in Monroe County.

Weller not only denied he had accepted such an appointment but emphasized that "the Veterans of Foreign Wars are not and never have been in politics—it is against our policy on all levels."

The Stroudsburg man said he had been contacted by Albert C. Ceres Jr., Harrisburg, organizer and State vice chairman of the Veterans for Eisenhower Committee.

Ceres, Weller said, called him and in a telephone conversation proposed Weller as the Veterans for Eisenhower chairman in Monroe County. The local veteran's leader said he recalled he had a lengthy conversation dealing largely with the trend of sentiment in this section.

Weller said yesterday he did not accept the appointment proposed by Ceres and that the announcement from Harrisburg came as a complete surprise yesterday.

The announcement was made in Harrisburg by Edwin F. Russell, Pennsylvania chairman, Citizens for Eisenhower.

Improved Coal Business Seen

New York (AP)—Coal prices have just about "scrapped bottom" and improved business is in sight, T. G. Gerow, president of the West Virginia Coal & Coke Corp., told stockholders yesterday.

Nevertheless, he warned the annual meeting, he does not look for a particularly good year for the company in its coal operations, although long-range prospects appear bright. The company's diversification of markets and mining operations and the potential demand for coal for steam generating plants are favorable factors, he asserted.

Supplying Hoists For Shrimp Boats Only One Phase Of Industry's Work

The fifth of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James B. Gaffney

Probably everyone in the western world is now aware that the shrimp boats are coming.

But how many realize that 90 percent of the fleet that docks and makes "dancin' tonight" possible, is equipped with machinery made in Stroudsburg?

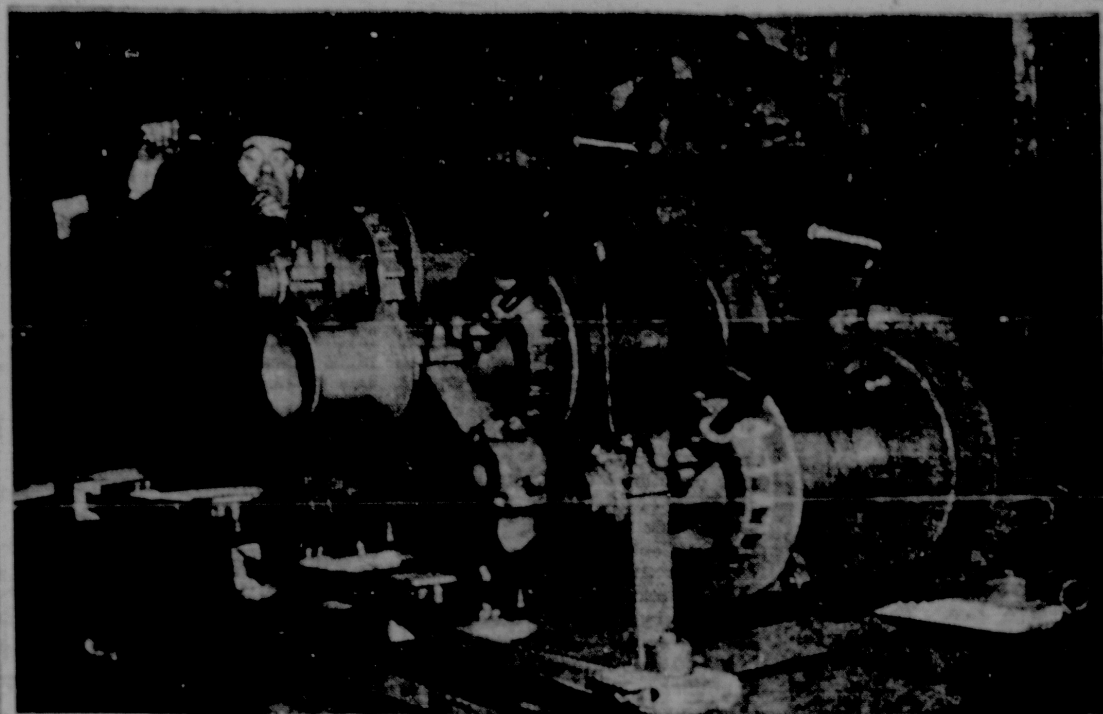

Stroudsburg Engine Works, located at 62 N. Third St., is the main supplier of hoists for the shrimp boat fleets, and because of the precision work, fine durable materials and workmanship that go into the expert making of this machinery, the shrimp industry is prospering today as never before in history.

Using such catchy phrases as "Built to stand abuse . . . under constant use!"; "The fisherman's choice . . . is the Stroudsburg hoist!" . . . and "What has it got . . . that keeps it on top?", the local firm employs every means to continue as the leader in manufacturing hoists for the fleet, and has gained international recognition for its endeavors.

But making hoists for shrimp boats is not the only work being done at the local plant. They also build larger steam-driven hoisting engines; make a general line of concrete pipe form and do general machine work and repairs.

Established in 1902, the plant came under the ownership of James H. Groner and his son, J. Albert Groner in 1932. The elder partner has been with the concern for 47 years and his son came with the firm the year after he graduated from Wharton School of Commerce and Finance, University of Pennsylvania.

Employing 50 men, the company last year paid approximately $150,000 in wages and salaries, proving it, too, is another industry in this section which is contributing greatly to the economic stability of the Stroudsburgs and Monroe County.

ORISON W. SLUTTER, 740 Brown St., Stroudsburg, an assembler for the past eight years at Stroudsburg Engine Works Co., is shown inspecting a triple friction hoist that soon will be in operation on a shrimp boat cruising in southern waters. Currently this type equipment engulfs much of the production at the local plant, but general machine work and repairs also are contributed by 50 male employees.

Of paramount significance to Stroudsburg Engine Works is the hoisting machinery they built during World War Two for the U. S. Army Engineers. "It was like building a boat in the cellar," J. Albert Groner said. "When it was finished we had to take the doors off to get it out."

The equipment referred to was used to add another and gigantic lock to the three existing locks at the Sault Ste. Marie in St. Mary's River. This river connects Lake Superior with Lake Huron and vast quantities of wheat, iron ore, coal and cement passed through these locks for the eastern market.

Construction of this lock brought up the problem that nothing was available on the Great Lakes in the way of a floating derrick or crane that could install or remove lock gates for the purpose of repairs, or in case of an accident.

With this in mind, the Chief Engineer's office in Washington decided to build a huge floating derrick with a working capacity of 250 tons and the Stroudsburg firm was called on to build the hoists.

The machinery built by the local plant was installed in the huge floating barge, and on December 16, 1944 the 600 ton hull was launched. The work that followed proved decisively that the equipment furnished by the local firm more than stood the trial, for in the final test the boom was raised and lowered handling a 312 ton load at a minimum and maximum radii.

Other contributions to the World War II effort included construction of hoists for floating cranes used to load and unload ships and for shipbuilding and even today the plant does some subcontracting for government defense work.

Stroudsburg Engine Works hoists are found in practically every southern state bordering on the Atlantic or Gulf of Mexico. They also are used in California, Mexico, Panama and at present three machines are being constructed for shipment to Brazil, South America.

The newest and most efficient fishing vessels in the southern fleet continue to be equipped with the "Famous Stroudsburg". Single, double and triple friction drum hoists are manufactured here for use on these ships. Shipping weight varies from 500 pounds to as much as 2200 pounds.

These hoists are capable of lifting up to 2,000 pounds and stand heavy duty work, fulfilling a multitude of chores.

And so, into the far reaches of the world goes the name "Stroudsburg," publicizing this region in ever increasing numbers and attesting to its industrial might. Known chiefly for its attraction to vacationers and honeymooners,

Capehart Expects Draft Of Truman

Philadelphia (AP) — U. S. Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind) told members of the oil and heating industry yesterday he thinks the Democratic national convention will draft President Truman for reelection.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Everybody was grumbling about the rainy spell, and yearning for nice weather. So we have a beautiful day and what happens—is everybody filled with joy and energy and an ambition to really get their teeth in their work?

Of course not, they're grumping about about the necessity of having to work at all on such a day, meant for relaxing.

Truly, I think we're at our most perverse and difficult at this time of year. Everybody seems to be rebelling at schedules at the very time that the schedules themselves tighten up for the last big push before summer.

Nobody wants to go to meetings, for the programs the program chairmen have saved until last because they're the best. Nobody wants to take on any more responsibilities at the very time that nominating committees are trying to round up the slate for next year.

Ornery we are, and feeling abused and put-upon and harassed. And don't deserve our blessings.

—Listen To— Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:05 a.m.

J. C. Penney Company's Golden Jubilee Opens Today

Max Stadfeld, manager of J. C. Penney Company, announced today the formal opening tomorrow of the company's Golden Jubilee.

"This is a great occasion for us, a time for celebration," said Mr. Stadfeld. "In just 50 years this company has grown from a single, tiny store in Southwestern Wyoming to a great retail merchandising organization—the largest of its kind in the world—with more than 1,600 stores and 70,000 associates serving nearly 40 million people."

"That's a monumental achievement in which all of us can take pride. For where else, but in our own United States of America, could such an achievement be possible? In the words inscribed on our medallion, the Penney Company has grown—is growing—with this Nation."

"Ours is a success story, not of one man alone but of many men. Early in his career our founder, Mr. J. C. Penney, realized that he would succeed only if others found success with him. Eventually he became known as the 'man with a thousand partners'—and thereby pioneered a profit-sharing idea which contributed much to the company's success."

"Thoughtful consideration for customers, associates, suppliers and stockholders always has been a Penney Company objective; also."

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg High Schools lift the lid on the 1952 baseball season locally today and the campaign will hold the headlines until the early days of October, when football moves to the front. The Cavaliers play host to Port Jervis at the East Stroudsburg Playground today, at 4 p. m. The Mountaineers take on a highly regarded Emmaus High contingent at the same time, in a Lehigh Valley League game, at Gordon Giffels Field. The Eastburg-Port Jervis tussle is a non-league affair.

Harry Werkheiser, athletic coach at Pocono High School, did the catching for Harry Schaeffer at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College in 1947. Schaeffer is now a member of the New York Yankees. Joe Penczak, third baseman with Peekskill, during the early years of the North Atlantic League, and later with Allentown, of the class "B" Interstate League, suffered a fractured ankle while sliding home the other day. Joe is currently a member of the Portsmouth, Va. entry in the Piedmont League. Reports indicate that he'll be out of action for at least five weeks.

Hal Sweeney, former outfielder with Lebanon, of the North Atlantic League, was recently optioned to Winston-Salem by Columbus, Ga., of the class "A" South Atlantic League. Winston-Salem is entered in the class "B" Carolina League. Carlos Bernier, outfielder who made such a deep impression on the Stroudsburg Peconics in spring training in 1950 while playing with Bristol, Conn., of the class "B" Colonial League, got off to a flying start with Hollywood, of the Pacific Coast League, this season.

The Puerto Rican fly-chaser threw two runners out from center field, one at third base and the other at the plate. However, Bernier was hit in the head by a throw from the rival pitcher as he streaked for first base after tapping an infield roller late in the game. Adding insult to injury, Bernier was called out for running wide of the base path. Barney Lutz, former Carbondale pilot of the NAL, is managing Fort Lauderdale in the class "B" Florida International League this season.

Charley Silvera, opening day catcher with the New York Yankees, is a close friend of Mike Rubish's, both having served together in the Army during World War Two. Mike is the very popular golf pro at Glen Brook Country Club. Jim Young, the gentleman who broadcasted all of the Lehigh Valley games in 1949 and for part of 1950, is now seeing service with the Army in Korea, according to reports Young has a major network position awaiting him when he departs from the service next year.

Last night's baseball meeting at the George N. Kemp American Legion Post was limited to the showing of the 1951 World Series movies and a discussion on Junior American Legion baseball. The reason for moving the Stroudsburg-Emmaus contest from its originally scheduled date tomorrow to today is that Emmaus has scheduled a school dance tomorrow. The Monroe County League opens its baseball season next Thursday.

Plans are currently being discussed concerning the possibility of holding an all-sports banquet in the very near future at the YMCA. Reports coming out of the St. Louis Browns' farm system indicate that Mary Jones, former Carbondale catcher, will be turned into a first baseman sometime during the coming campaign. The reports further reveal that the hard hitting Jones is finding it almost impossible to master the mechanics of catching, as taught in the better minor leagues.

Plenty of the area's athletes are expected to be on hand for the Ham and Oyster supper to be served by the Jackson Township Volunteer Fire Co., at Jackson Township school on Saturday. Serving is scheduled to take place between 5 and 9 p. m. Jackie Swartz, former three-letter athlete at ESSTC, had a record turnout of 75 baseball candidates at Carbondale's Benjamin Franklin High school this year. This is the time of year that reports would be filtering in from Maryland concerning the possibilities of the Stroudsburg Peconics, if the North Atlantic League would have remained in operation.

Bowling banquets become a nightly occurrence at this time of year, and the present season is no exception. Coaches taking the area were either talking in the fight and a baseball game via television or radio last night, as several telephone calls revealed. Les Carlton, Daily Record photographer, is walking on air today following two straight victories by his beloved St. Louis Browns, over the Detroit Tigers. Alden "Red" Fetherman is probably the only athlete to captain all three teams at Stroudsburg High. The outstanding athlete was co-captain of the football team; captain of the basketball squad, and is co-captain with Jack Newell of the baseball contingent.

Eastburg, Stroudsburg Launch Diamond Campaigns

Cavaliers Play Host To Port Jervis

East Stroudsburg High School opens the 1952 baseball season today at the East Stroudsburg Playground, as a strong Port Jervis High diamond contingent invades Pennsylvania from its New York stronghold. The contest, scheduled for nine innings, is listed to get underway at 4 p. m.

The Cavaliers, using today's encounter as experience for the tough Lehigh-Northampton League grind ahead, will feature Ray Steele in the pitching role for the first four or five innings, with Joe Antonucci and Frank Ciofalo expected to follow in that order. All are right handed tossers.

According to reports from Port Jervis, today's visiting nine will use a trio of hurlers, each for three innings. Irv Rothschild will open and in turn is expected to be followed by John Barbarino and Dick Harford.

Coach Jack Kist announced last night that Harold Litts would open behind the plate for East Stroudsburg, while the remainder of the infield features John "Juice" Arnst at first base, Jack Sommers, second base; Paul "Candy" Miller, shortstop, and Don France, third base.

The outfield will feature Harold White in left field; Martin "Ducky" Martz, center field, and George Litts, right field. With the exception of White, the opening band of Cavaliers is a veteran aggregation.

If the contest goes in favor of East Stroudsburg, Kist expects to substitute freely throughout the lineup and not on the pitching mound alone.

Leon Alberts is expected to see considerable work behind the plate, while Jim Kintz and Bob Kupiszewski break into the infield if the opportunity presents. Dick Merring may see service in either the infield or outfield.

Dick Transue, originally slated to open in left field, will be lost to the squad for about a week with a strep-throat.

'Sugar' Pleased With Performance

Chicago (AP)—"My, oh my, did my boy look sharp—makes me have thoughts of going after Joe Maxin's light heavy title," said George Gairford, jovial manager of Sugar Ray Robinson.

Robinson, swallowed up by a tidal wave of well-wishers in his dressing room last night, chirped: "I'm not interested in Maxin."

Kennedy Passes Marine Physical

Chicago (AP)—Outfielder Bob Kennedy of the Cleveland Indians passed a Marine Air Force physical examination yesterday and will be recalled to military service May 29.

Kennedy, 32, who held a captain's rank in the Marine Reserve Air Corps, was a flying instructor of outfielder Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox star, in World War Two. Williams also has been called to the Marines.

Oil Countess Falls Dead

Lexington, Ky. (AP)—Oil Countess, three year old filly by Count Fleet, fell dead while on the track for a morning workout at Keeneland yesterday.

Owned by Mrs. Emil Denemark of Chicago, the filly has been trained by Bob McGarvey. Oil Countess ran last in a field of seven in her last start at Keeneland Friday.

Cardinals Nip Pirates, 6-5

St. Louis, (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals exploded for five runs with two out in the seventh inning last night to defeat former teammate Howard Pollet and the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-5. Stan Musial led the Redbirds to their second straight victory with a home run and a double, driving in three runs.

Robinson Ends Graziano's Title Bid In Third Round

By Charles Dunkley
Chicago (AP)—Champion "Sugar Ray" Robinson, a boxer turned ferocious slugger, knocked out challenger "Rocky" Graziano with a pulverizing left and right in 1:53 of the third round to retain his middleweight title before a standing room crowd of 22,364 in the Chicago Stadium last night.

Robinson, who weighed 157½, elected to slug it out toe-to-toe from the outset of the fierce scrap and ended it with incredible swiftness after Graziano himself had floored the champion midway in the third.

Seconds after Graziano had belted Robinson to the floor along the ropes with a ponderous right-hand smash to the head, Robinson unleashed a lightning quick left-right combination which felled Graziano like a ton of bricks.

Graziano, counted out by Referee Tommy Gilmore, by game instinct struggled to his feet and with helpless waving fists tried to continue the battle. He was restrained by Gilmore.

Robinson was stung to fury by his no-count knockdown by Graziano. Robinson followed with a crunching short right which landed flush on Rocky's chin. Graziano sagged into the ropes and then his body crashed to the floor of the ring.

It was the third time in Graziano's flamboyant ring career he had been knocked out. Tony Zale, former middleweight champion, had administered two previous knockouts.

The previous record indoor fight crowd was 23,322 at the stadium in 1932 when Jack Dempsey boxed "King" Levinisky.

Graziano, who reportedly went into the ring at 162 after stripping naked to weigh-in at noon at 159½, found himself confronted by a slugger instead of the fancy dancing master that Robinson is supposed to be.

Time after time in the short-lived bout, Robinson stepped right into Graziano with crunching lefts and rights that reddened Rocky's face and body.

Graziano in both the first and second rounds, sent Robinson back-peddling with powerhouse, whistling right-hand smashes to the head. But Robinson was ever alert to move in with a stinging series of punches.

Dodgers Run Over Braves In Wild Tilt

Boston, (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers pounded out 20 hits and took full advantage of seven errors yesterday while out-slugging the Boston Braves 14-8 for their second straight win of the new National League season.

Roy Campanella continued his heavy bombardment of the Boston pitchers by driving in four runs with a single, double and his first homer of the campaign. "Duke" Snider added to the opposing hurlers' woes by connecting for singles on the first five of his six batting tries.

Chase Starter
Max Surkont, the Boston starter, faced only six batters and gave the Dodgers four runs on three hits and two bases on balls. The Braves, however, collected three runs against starter Chris Van Cuyk in their side of the first, on Walker Cooper's bases-loaded double off the right-center fence. But after three frames, the Dodgers had an 11-3 lead and were able to coast the rest of the way.

Campanella's two-bagger drove in two runs in the first inning. Billy Cox was on base when the burly backstop homered off Ernie Johnson in the second session.

Errors by Sid Gordon and Billy Reed, the rookie second baseman, played an important part in the five unearned runs the Dodgers gained in the third, during which Campanella was hit on the wrist by a pitched ball.

Senators Edge Red Sox, 4-3

Washington, (AP)—Floyd Baker's base-loaded single off Ellis Kinder with two out in the eleventh inning scored Irv Noren from third base with the run that gave Washington a 4-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox last night.

Ellis Kinder, Boston's third pitcher, was the victim of Baker's blow. With one out in the eleventh, Noren doubled to left and Mickey Vernon was passed intentionally. Frank Campos also walked to fill the bases and after Cass Michaels fouled out, Baker broke up the game.

Distance
Julio Moreno went the distance for the Senators, giving up eight hits and striking out nine. He was clipped for two unearned runs in the ninth when the Red Sox tied the score at 3-3 on Billy Goodman's double with two out.

Boston — 100 000 002 00—3 8 0
Washington — 000 012 000 01—4 7 3

Browns Rally To Win Second Straight From Tigers, 5-4

Detroit, (AP)—Manager Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Browns yanked two other players for pinchhitters but let pitcher Tommy Byrne hit for himself in a seventh inning rally and the strange strategy paid off with a 5-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers yesterday.

Byrne, showing the control he lacked last year, gave up seven hits in pitching Bill Veeck's Browns to their second straight victory.

In the seventh after "Hank" Arft tripled and Leo Thomas was hit by one of loser Art Houtie-man's pitches, Hornsby yanked catcher Clint Courtney for Earl Rapp. But Rapp popped up. Byrne took his turn and doubled to left for the first run. Pinch-hitter Dick Kryhoski, a Tiger last year, batted for the second baseman and singled home two more runs.

What proved to be the winning run came in the eighth inning. Tom Wright beat out an infield hit, George Schmees pushed him home with a triple and Arft's double to center scored Schmees.

Giants Down Phillies On Elliott's Two Circuit Blows

New York, (AP)—Bob Elliott blasted two home runs in a sensational New York debut to help the Giants celebrate their season opener with a 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies last night in the first after dark major league baseball inaugural in New York history.

Chisox Bow To Indians

Chicago, (AP)—Rookie outfielder Jim Fridge's first major league homer and Bob Lemon's three-hit pitching sneaked the Cleveland Indians to their second straight win over the Chicago White Sox, 1-0, yesterday.

Fridge's second-inning smash into the upper left field stands ruined the four-hit performance by Chicago's Joe Dobson.

Trouble
Only once after that did Dobson waver.

That was in the ninth, when Luke Easter's double and two walks filled the bases for Cleveland with two out. But Joe got out of the jam when Ray Boone forced Easter to third.

Mountaineers Home With Emmaus High

Stroudsburg High opens its 1952 baseball season one day earlier than expected, when the reportedly strong Emmaus High contingent moves into Gordon Giffels field for a Lehigh Valley League contest at 4 p. m. The battle was advanced one day at the request of Emmaus, who ran into a case of conflicting dates.

Coach Jerry Stulgaitis announced last night that co-captain Alden "Red" Fetherman, beginning his fourth year of high school baseball, would be on the hill for the Mountaineers.

In case the hard working right hander should falter along the way, a pair of right handed sophomores will be ready to take over in relief, in the persons of Dick Schuster and Harold Hogrefels.

Lineup

Stulgaitis has arranged his lineup in such a manner that Paul "Doc" Lim will leadoff and play second base, co-captain Jack Newell will hit second and handle the third base chores. Fetherman will hit third, while center fielder Gene Caskie handles the center field duties and bats in the clean up spot.

First baseman Floyd Williams will bat fifth, while Karl Weingartner takes over the shortstop berth for the second straight year and his sixth. Layton DeHaven will catch and bat seventh, with Al Adelsmann in right field and eighth in the batting order. Jim "Red" Makosky will handle the left field duties and hit ninth.

Dick Campeotto is the reserve catcher, with Benny Miller and Carl Hagerty filling the roles of substitute outfielders. Bob Hintze is the reserve infielder.

Emmaus annually presents a strong baseball contingent and this year isn't expected to be any exception.

Stroudsburg returns to action next Thursday, at Catasauqua.

Lakers Dump Knicks, 82-77

New York (AP)—The poised Minneapolis Lakers held the New York Knickerbockers to two field goals during the last six minutes last night for a 82-77 victory to take a 2-1 lead in the National Basketball Association playoff finals.

Leads Attack
With George Mikan hitting 26 points for scoring honors, the Lakers' ended New York's home-floor winning streak at 23 games.

Time and again the Knicks tried to run Minneapolis off the court with their blistering fast-breaking tactics, but the veteran Lakers, who have won two NBA titles in the last three years, refused to become rattled.

'Rocky' Heard Final Count

Chicago (AP)—"Rocky" Graziano sat on the table in his dressing room and said:

"That guy's a great fighter. There's no question about that." He was paying tribute to Ray Robinson, the middleweight champion who had just knocked him out.

Things had moved at a fast and furious pace in the ring upstairs in the jammed Chicago Stadium.

Review

Rocky reviewed the short evening: "I heard the count," he told newsmen. "I heard eight, nine, ten. The count went so fast. It was hard getting up. I thought I had enough time."

"I told myself 'I'm going to win this fight,'" Rocky recalled. "I'm going to beat this guy. This guy isn't so good."

"I guess I started getting a little wild."

H. C. Edwards Faces Fight For Election

Harold C. Edwards, Stroudsburg attorney and delegate to the Democratic convention in Chicago from this district in 1944, is again seeking election to this post with party endorsement in the 15th District composed of Monroe, Carbon and Northampton Counties.

Despite an agreement made and ratified by the party providing Northampton County is always to have one delegate and that the other is to be rotated between Carbon and Monroe—giving Monroe the turn this year—Mr. Edwards is faced with opposition by Paul Ruyak, of Bethlehem.

A similar agreement was made and ratified by the Republican party groups of the congressional district, also always giving Northampton County one delegate and alternating the other between Carbon and Monroe.

Basis for both agreements is that without such an arrangement, neither Carbon nor Monroe County could be assured of representation at the national convention because voter registration in Northampton exceeds that of Monroe and Carbon combined.

On the Republican side this agreement has worked out satisfactorily this year. Kenneth Kressler will be the delegate from Northampton and since it is Monroe's turn, B. K. Williams will be the delegate from this county. There is no opposition to Williams.

Ruyak, however, entered the battle to make "a third" in the Democratic race. Everett Kent, a former congressman, has been selected to represent Northampton County.

Since Ruyak comes from a heavy registration center in Bethlehem and Northampton County the odds are heavy against Edwards. The City of Bethlehem alone has more registered voters than Monroe County in the Democratic party.

The battle to send a Monroe County man to the Democratic national convention, party leaders said yesterday, rests in a drive to get out a maximum vote here next Tuesday, April 22.

Mr. Edwards has been endorsed by Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Easton), who called Ruyak with a request he withdraw. Walter said here Tuesday night Ruyak "has not seen fit to do so."

Mr. Kent, the other candidate for delegate, is sticking by the party endorsement of Mr. Edwards, party leaders said yesterday.

Edwards has been active as a leader in the Democratic party for the past 35 years.

Truman Flies Over Flooded Missouri Valley

Stevenson Says He 'Could Not Accept' Nomination

Democratic Race Thrown Into Scramble

By The Associated Press
Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois plunged the scramble for the Democratic presidential nomination into deeper confusion yesterday with the announcement that he "could not accept" a bid to become his party's standard bearer.

The development came as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower rolled up a 150,000-vote victory over Sen. Robert A. Taft in a test of strength in the New Jersey primary election.

In Paris, Eisenhower said he was "very proud" of the outcome. Some of his supporters said it meant the five-star general would not have to undertake an all-out campaign to win the Republican presidential nomination against the hard-stumping Taft.

Gov. Stevenson's "could not accept" announcement apparently slammed the door on efforts to boost him as a counter to the front-running Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

But at least one party chieftain seized on the fact that Stevenson said "could not" instead of "would not," and declared that if the Democratic national convention stamped for Stevenson—as the Republican national convention stamped for Wendell L. Willkie in 1940—it would be difficult for the governor to refuse the nomination.

Kefauver promptly hailed the announcement as "very favorable" to his own candidacy and invited Stevenson's supporters to "switch to me."

Stevenson had led the field in terms of delegate strength for the forthcoming Democratic convention in July, although Kefauver was far out in front in popular votes in the various state primary contests.

Based on statements of delegates pledged, favorable or instructed to vote for a specific candidate at the convention, Stevenson had 54, Kefauver 40, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota 23, and Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma 8.

The immediate effect of Stevenson's withdrawal was to remove a potentially formidable contender and thus throw the gates even wider open for new entries—and touch off a behind-the-scenes scurry to find another stop-Kefauver candidate.

On the Republican side, Gen. Eisenhower rolled up a popular vote of more than 382,000 against 225,000 for Taft and 22,000 for former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, in Tuesday's New Jersey primary.

Percentage-wise, it was Eisenhower 60.6 to Taft's 35.8 per cent. Eisenhower also won 31 of New Jersey's 38 GOP delegates. Taft got 4 and Stassen one. Two were uncommitted but reportedly leaned to Taft.

With about one-third of the 1,205 GOP delegates chosen so far, the indicated strength of the two rivals—based on pledges and leanings—stood at Taft 206, Eisenhower 119.

Surprise Awaits This Lady

Nashville, Tenn. (AP) — When Mrs. B. O. Briley comes home, is she going to be surprised?

She has a new roof on her house and it won't cost her a penny. You see, a roofing company crew got mixed up in which house was to get the roof.

Mrs. Bernice W. Cunningham ordered the roof for her house several days ago. When the workmen failed to arrive as expected, she called the roofing firm.

An investigation showed the roof had been installed, all right, but on Mrs. Briley's house. The two houses are similar in appearance and are near each other.

Denver (AP) — The leaders of three major oil worker unions said last night their men will strike April 30 if a satisfactory wage settlement is not reached by negotiations.

Kiwanis Club To Provide Free Transportation To Polls For Primary Election

Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club in conjunction with the national organization's "Ballot Battalion," will furnish free transportation service to the Primary election polls on Primary Day, Tuesday, April 22.

The club's promotion is being carried on under the direction of Kiwanis Public and Business Affairs Committee. Arrangements are in the hands of Eric Schuchard, a member of the committee.

Transportation service will be available to voters living in Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and Stroud Township from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Any person unable to obtain transportation to the polls is urged to call the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg 380, extension 500, and a car will be available for transportation both to and from the voting place in the district where the voter lives.

Air Force Finding It More Difficult To Lure Men To Fly New Types Of Aircraft

Washington, (AP) — The Air Force told Congress yesterday it is getting more and more difficult to persuade American youths to man new types of combat aircraft.

It added that Russia is luring its best youths into flying duty by offering almost double pay and other benefits.

This testimony came from Air Secretary Finletter and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, ranking Air Force officer. They appeared before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee checking on the extra pay given servicemen for "extra hazard" duty—flying, submarine duty and parachute drops. There have been charges of abuses of this pay system, and some members of Congress have been talking of reducing the extra pay.

Army's New Tanks Ready For War Duty

Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md. (AP) — The Army demonstrated its new M-47 medium tank yesterday and disclosed that it now has "many, many tanks ready for issuance to troops."

While officials of this big Army proving ground did not disclose the number of the new 48-ton mediums ready for combat, Col. C. G. Wilhide, commander of the Detroit Tank Arsenal, told reporters the Army now has more M-47s than there are of "all types of United States tanks in Korea combined."

The colonial, visiting here, commands one of the two plants that build the M-47.

In Washington there was an impression that the new tank would be issued to troops in Korea but officials in charge of development and production seemed surprised at this.

One official said far as he knew "there is no additional requirement for tanks in Korea."

M-47 tanks which were put through paces for reporters yesterday seemed to be rid of "bugs" which plagued early production models.

On the Republican side, Gen. Eisenhower rolled up a popular vote of more than 382,000 against 225,000 for Taft and 22,000 for former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, in Tuesday's New Jersey primary.

Percentage-wise, it was Eisenhower 60.6 to Taft's 35.8 per cent. Eisenhower also won 31 of New Jersey's 38 GOP delegates. Taft got 4 and Stassen one. Two were uncommitted but reportedly leaned to Taft.

Reds Ask To Resume Talks

Munsan, Korea, Thursday (AP) — Red truce negotiators today told the Allies for the second time they were willing to resume talks on prisoner-of-war exchange.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, U. N. command sub-delegate, told the Communists he would "pass the message on."

There was no indication when the Allies might be ready to reopen the prisoner issue. The talks have been in recess since April 4, to allow the two sides to develop means of breaking the long deadlock.

Ole Doc Ervin Dies At 75, Low On Cash But Still Rich

Inverness, Miss. (AP) — The soothing hand of death yesterday tapped the salty country doctor who never made much money—but figured he was rich.

Dr. W. L. Ervin, 75, died of the disease he himself diagnosed last February—cancer of the liver.

He had the "no visiting" sign taken off his door shortly after his diagnosis was confirmed in a Memphis hospital. He liked people.

"Ain't much visiting time left for me, anyway," he said.

When he returned home March 9 to await death, many of his patients—rich and poor, white and black—dropped by to see "Ole Doc."

Many who couldn't visit wrote letters. And when newspapers told of the doctor who never

"We are a service organization and we think it is high time for service club members to get into politics," an officer of Kiwanis said last night. "Service clubs generally have been shy of the word 'politics' for much too long. Kiwanis feels it is the duty of every qualified person to get out and vote. This is one way in which the club feels it can help," the statement concluded.

Vandenberg, urging the senators not to do this, said: "The increasing risk is dampening the enthusiasm for flying. I would not like to give the impression that our youth is losing its sense of duty or zestfulness."

"But the fact cannot be blinked that the Air Force is meeting increasing difficulty in attracting sufficient numbers of young men physically and mentally qualified for flying."

There was no mention of the refusal of some American flying officers to fly, but Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass), committee member, told a reporter he probably will ask about the "sit-down strike by Air Force officers" before hearings end.

Lt. Verne Goodwin, an Air Force pilot who refused to fly because he said he felt he "would be murdering" his unborn child, was sentenced yesterday at El Paso, Tex., to two years imprisonment.

A dozen other Air Force officers who refused to fly at Randolph base, San Antonio, Tex., and at Mather base in California, also have charges against them.

Parker Cullom of Las Cruces, N. M., father of Goodwin's wife, said his daughter, then pregnant, twice had to be placed under a doctor's care when Goodwin made flights. The baby was born prematurely last January.

Three Boys Drown

sent bills, mail came from every state in the Union.

Some letters held checks from patients he had long forgotten.

The largest—for $100—came from a couple whose child he treated when they were on the financial rocks 25 years ago.

One of the smallest payments was sent by an old Negro woman in Louisville, Ky., who mailed a "widow's mite" of $2.

Money was the least of Ole Doc Ervin's worries, long as he got by. But when he had to go to Memphis, about 140 miles north of here, word got around he was low on cash.

A couple of days later, a gift of $2,000 came from his patients and friends in Sunflower County, where he had practiced 33 years.

Doc Ervin couldn't stop the rush of tears. "Best people in the world, black and white," he said.

Truman Held At Blame In Steel Crisis

Washington (AP) — Senator Bridges (R-NH) accused President Truman yesterday of being the principal creator of the crisis that led to seizure of the steel industry.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, in an apparent preliminary to a government grant of a pay raise over the heads of the companies, conferred separately with President Philip Murray of the CIO-Steelworkers and President Benjamin Fairless of U. S. Steel Corp.

Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall ruled out anew any such steel price increase as the $12 a ton the companies have said they would need to cover the government-recommended pay raise which is the nub of the dispute. He said they would get "nothing" as a price for peace though he has said all along they can have some $3 a ton under regular stabilization rules. He took his stand in a National Press Club luncheon speech and defended it later in a Senate hearing.

There was a walkout at a Republican Steel plant in Cleveland in an effort to hasten action on pay.

Inland Steel Co. took a new tack in efforts to get an anti-seizure court order, seeking a declaratory judgment that the action is illegal. Several companies are asking an injunction in Federal court here. Inland chose its home grounds at Hammond, Ind., for the test.

A group of Senate Republicans offered a resolution for a Judiciary Committee investigation of the seizure, which Bridges called an act of "usurpation" that has "raised the gravest constitutional question since the war between the states."

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) proposed taking a faster route to an expression from Congress. He offered an amendment to forbid use of any of the money in a pending appropriation bill to enforce seizure. He said it would provide a "clear vote" even though none of the money in the bill apparently is set up where it would be tapped for the steel operations.

And Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) injected into the Senate talk a pointed discussion of Congress' impeachment powers.

Altogether the rapid-fire developments pointed the boiling steel controversy toward a new and violent eruption, with the blast most likely to come when the government moves on pay.

When government-sponsored negotiations for a company-union settlement in the controversy collapsed Tuesday night, Sawyer announced he would go "promptly but not precipitately" into the pay and working conditions question, as President Truman had empowered him to do.

Convicts Hold Four Hostages

Trenton, N. J. (AP) — Officials at Trenton State Prison yesterday waited for 68 barricaded convicts to answer a message sent in to them from state institutions and agencies Commissioner Sanford Bates.

The rioters are holding four prison employees hostage in the institution's printing shop. Bates told them he would consider their grievances if the men were released unharmed.

Latest word is that the hostages, two of whom have heart trouble, have had no food since the riot began at 10 a. m. Tuesday. Food and medicine were sent in to them, but the rioters apparently appropriated the food themselves.

Bates said, "Our job now is to get these men back in circulation," but he admitted he didn't have any method of doing this other than to wait the rioters out.

Tuesday, the rioters told Bates the hostages had not been harmed, but there has been no word from inside the printing shop since then. The convicts have remained quiet in the meantime and there has been no change in the situation.

Frogman Found Dead In Bathtub

London (AP) — A young man in a home-made frogman's outfit was found lying in 12 inches of water in the bathtub of his apartment yesterday. He was dead.

Nose clips of the breathing apparatus were clamped on the nose of the victim, John D. George, 25. Friends said George was interested in scientific experiments.

YOUNG DIET MUELLER, who came from Germany to study the American school system, had a first-hand lesson in free speech last night at a meeting of the East Stroudsburg School Board as Jesse Flory (left), chairman of the borough's PTA committee on jointure, and Michael Hannon, PTA president, listen to Horace L. Walters (seated), School Board member, express his opinion of jointures. Flory and Hannon asked the board's cooperation in PTA's study of jointures. (Daily Record photo)

School Board To Explain Stand Against Jointure

East Stroudsburg's School Board agreed last night to sit in special session with the borough's PTA representatives and explain the reason for its stand against jointure. The agreement followed the appearance of Jesse Flory, chairman of the PTA's jointure survey committee, and Michael Hannon, PTA president.

9 Area Men Returning From Reich

Nine area soldiers slated for discharge will be aboard the transport General Hershey, due to dock in New York tomorrow.

The nine were among those who completed their tour of duty with the 28th Division, a former Pennsylvania National Guard outfit, now in Germany.

The ship sailed recently from Bremerhaven. The soldiers are M/Sgt. Bernard Rosso, Delaware Water Gap; Sfc. George P. Brodhead, Cpl. Reginald S. Lambert and Sfc. Harold Elsenberger, Stroudsburg; Sfc. George W. Seese and Cpl. Walter Bensen, Bushkill; Sgt. Richard Bittenbender, Saylorsburg; Cpl. John W. Bensen, Dingmans Ferry, and Cpl. Louis Gigliotti, Bangor.

He confined himself to pointing out that there is "a problem" to be faced in the borough, and PTA was as interested as the board in possible answers.

Several times Flory found it necessary to remind the board that PTA was not proposing a jointure, but was trying to find out whether one would help the borough.

Speaking through President J. M. Hill, the board said it was "against" jointure.

"We took a stand last December," Hill said, "and nothing's changed since then."

Hill told the PTA men that the school district had one million dollars worth of assets and only $90,000 indebtedness, of which some $9,000 was to be paid off this year.

"Why should we pool our assets with some other district?" Hill said.

Another board member, Clyde W. Shaffer, said he thought jointure would mean a considerable increase in millage, but did not elaborate.

Flory told him it was just such background information on what jointure would mean that the PTA was after.

Hill asked what district East Stroudsburg could merge with. "Not Stroudsburg—they're bursting at the seams already."

Flory stressed again that the PTA was after information, and was not proposing merger with a specific district, nor even a merger, unless it would be of advantage to East Stroudsburg.

He pointed out that with East Stroudsburg High school taking large numbers of tuition students (Continued on page eleven)

The Daily Record Reaches Finals In Competition

The Daily Record, one of more than 800 American newspapers competing for the F. Wayland Ayer cup for excellence in typography, makeup and press work, was one of the finalists in the annual contest, it was announced yesterday in Philadelphia.

Winners of the four classifications were named by N. W. Ayer & Son Inc., advertising agency. Top place in the competition went to the Daily News-Tribune, of LaSalle, Peru-Oglesby, Ill., for the second straight year.

In attaining a high place in the contest, The Daily Record was entered in the under-10,000 circulation class. Other classifications were 10,000 to 50,000; above 50,000, and tabloid.

Little added damage was expected at St. Paul and Red Cross crews and Army amphibious vehicles moved downstream to Winona, Minn., where a dike failure could inundate one-third of the city.

Downstream points in Wisconsin and Iowa braced for record assaults in the near future.

At the twin cities of Fargo, N. D., and Moorhead, Minn., the Red River of the north appeared ready to crest some 17 feet over flood stage.

President Truman accused an economy bloc in Congress of "wiping out some of the most important projects" he had recommended in his annual budget. And he said he will renew demands for a huge national flood control program including insurance against flood damage.

"It is not necessary for these things to happen," Truman said grimly after he had flown over mile upon mile of farmlands submerged by the rampaging Missouri River.

Committee To Study Need For Revenue

Harrisburg (AP) — Gov. John S. Fine yesterday named a nine-man bipartisan committee to study the need for 136 million dollars in new revenue next year.

Five Republicans and four Democrats were named to the group headed by Dr. Alfred G. Buehler, Philadelphia, professor of public finance at the University of Pennsylvania.

The Governor said specifically he would not revive the right he lost last year for passage of a one-half of one per cent personal income tax.

"The income tax died as an issue when the last Legislature refused to enact it into law," he said in a statement. "I have no intention of reviving it or to recommend any other form of tax."

"If the committee comes up with a recommendation for a broad base tax," the Governor said, "it will be entirely up to the Legislature" to determine what form of levy should be imposed.

Named to the committee were these Republicans: E. M. Elkin, Pittsburgh tax attorney; Chairman T. Newell Wood, Harveys Lake, of the Senate Finance Committee; Leonard A. Drake, Philadelphia economist and Albert C. Coons, Lebanon department store executive, and these Democrats: Rep. Albert S. Redinger (D-Berks); G. Franklin McSorley, Pittsburgh realtor; Wesley Reitze, Meadville dairy farmer and banker, and Earl C. Bohr, Camp Hill, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-Pennsylvania Federation of Labor.

He confined himself to pointing out that there is "a problem" to be faced in the borough, and PTA was as interested as the board in possible answers.

Several times Flory found it necessary to remind the board that PTA was not proposing a jointure, but was trying to find out whether one would help the borough.

Speaking through President J. M. Hill, the board said it was "against" jointure.

"We took a stand last December," Hill said, "and nothing's changed since then."

Hill told the PTA men that the school district had one million dollars worth of assets and only $90,000 indebtedness, of which some $9,000 was to be paid off this year.

"Why should we pool our assets with some other district?" Hill said.

Another board member, Clyde W. Shaffer, said he thought jointure would mean a considerable increase in millage, but did not elaborate.

Flory told him it was just such background information on what jointure would mean that the PTA was after.

Hill asked what district East Stroudsburg could merge with. "Not Stroudsburg—they're bursting at the seams already."

Flory stressed again that the PTA was after information, and was not proposing merger with a specific district, nor even a merger, unless it would be of advantage to East Stroudsburg.

He pointed out that with East Stroudsburg High school taking large numbers of tuition students (Continued on page eleven)

Dikes Still Defy Rampant Flood Waters

Omaha (AP) — President Truman air-toured middle America's flood disaster area yesterday and found a Missouri River straining mightily—but still unsuccessfully—to smash Omaha and Council Bluffs, Ia., with the worst flood in their history.

Upstream and downstream, the "Mighty Mo"—mightier than white man ever has seen her—was having its way.

Still packing the power of a thousand locomotives, the swollen marauder engulfed new thousands of acres and flooded or threatened new towns as the crisis area moved southward.

But at Omaha and Council Bluffs there was defiance. The line of defense ran along 23 miles of levees which had never been expected to get such a test but

Morton Weldy Tells Club Of Middle East

Morton Eugene Weldy, lawyer, educator and world traveler, outlined the situation in the Middle East before the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club at the Penn-Stroud hotel yesterday afternoon, during which he pointed out the terrible mess in which the world is today.

Presented by Eric Schuchard, program chairman, Mr. Weldy told how Egypt tied in with the general world situation, mistakes made, the Russian power and declared the United States needs all the friends she can get. Not power alone, but a spirit of cooperation is essential if this world is to continue to exist, he said.

The speaker said the trouble in Egypt originally was a local scrap. However, as a result of World War Two, seething unrest exists among the underdog throughout Asia and Africa which is growing day by day. He told of King Farouk being back in the saddle which could help this country if we can get him on our side.

Mistakes made by the representatives of this country with pictures as serious, also the economic pressure which is being used in dealing with other nations. He showed how spirit of cooperation could have improved conditions in many areas.

A delegation of the club went to Scranton last night to participate in the 35th anniversary of the Scranton club.

President Gilbert L. Smrz commended Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlisen and his committee on Support of Churches for the fine observance of Good Friday through the cooperation of business and other service clubs. He said he believed more people went to church that day than probably ever before.

Mr. Schuchard asked club members to furnish cars to carry voters to the polls at the primary election next Tuesday. The response was encouraging. Penn-Stroud hotel will be headquarters.

Tickets were disposed of for the Mask and Zany Club play, "She Sings to Conquer", April 24 and 25 at the college auditorium and announcement was made of the Anna Logan Society dance Saturday night, May 10, for the benefit of Monroe County General Hospital.

Bob Hellmann was song leader with Numa J. Snyder at the piano. John E. Watt gave the invocation.

Guests welcomed by the president were Joseph Greco, Mauch Chunk; John Hughes, Allentown, and Joseph P. Klatzkin, North Bergen, N. J.

The monthly meeting of the directors will be held at the Penn-Stroud hotel Monday, April 21, at 4:30 p.m.

Men Confess Long List Of Burglaries

The incredible story of a string of daylight burglaries stretching from Georgia to Monroe County was told to State Police in Stroudsburg yesterday.

The tale developed during the day-long questioning of Reginald Albert Cope, 45, Portland RD2, Tenn., and Orland T. Benson, 34, Etowah, Tenn.

The pair was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace William N. Walton, Stroudsburg, for the Monday afternoon burglary of the Fred R. Ducklo residence, Stroudsburg RD3, and for carrying concealed weapons.

Benson had used one of the pistols to fire a shot at Pfc. Ed Beneski and Cpl. Carson Overgard Monday while the two troopers were driving the prisoners to the Stroudsburg substation, police said.

He had concealed the weapon in his sock, police said, and it was wrested from him before either trooper was wounded.

After hearing the charges yesterday, both men pleaded guilty and were ordered held in the county jail for grand jury action.

After arraignment the two were taken to the Stroudsburg substation for further questioning.

Much of the afternoon's investigation was by Beneski, Pfc. Alex G. Kearns, Lt. Fitz Harris and Det. C. P. Hughes of the Delaware State police, and Det. LaMar of the Wilmington, Del., city police.

Also present was Sturgis Fay, Wilmington resident who identified some of the items seized in the truck driven by Cope and Benson when they were arrested Monday.

Northampton County police also had their turn at the two. Portland Police Chief Jesse Felker and William Hantz, Nazareth, assistant chief county detective, left the barracks, they said, with a confession of the burglary of an Upper Mount Bethel home.

Police alternated in interrogating the men. The three Delaware officers, who arrived in Stroudsburg in the morning, spent hours with the pair, questioning them about recent burglaries in and around Wilmington.

After they were through with the questioning, the Delaware men said the following story had emerged:

Benson said he met Cope in Atlanta when he hitched a ride less than two weeks ago.

The two started to work their way north, sticking mostly to main highways.

As they proceeded, they would "hit" houses along the highway which appeared to be vacant.

The pair said all the burglaries were daylight jobs.

At night they would put up at a tourist court or motel, then drive on the next day.

They couldn't remember getting much cash, they said. The loot taken included guns, clothing, appliances, lighters, cameras, radio-phonographs and items they could dispose of for cash.

As they reached each large city along the route, they would visit pawnshops to dispose of stolen goods picked up en route.

Cope, a thin, sallow man with lined, stubby cheeks, exhibited the better memory of the two as police doggedly pried them with, "Where?" "When?" "Morning or afternoon?" "The big white frame house, remember?" "Before or after you left Wilmington?" "What did you do with the stuff?"

Benson, a hefty, black-haired man beef-dark from sun and exposure, apparently tried to remember where he had hooked the things police queried him about.

"Ah, deeah," he said in his Tennessee drawl, "Ah can't remember. Ah been drunk since January 8th. . ."

Police nailed down one after another break-in with steady pointed questioning. The two men could set no definite number. They said they could not remember all the places.

The number would probably run in the dozens, police said.

When Benson had difficulty remembering where he had pawned the goods taken from houses along the way, Det. Hesser asked patiently, "Well, can you remember how many times you went into a hockshop?"

"Ah done it so many times . . . how can ah remember?" Then, referring to a shotgun stolen from one home, Benson recalled abruptly, "Hey! Ah didn't hock that shotgun in Philly! Ah sold it in a gun shop."

But he couldn't remember the location.

On Easter Sunday the two stayed at a tourist camp near Lambertville, N. J., then started north again the following morning.

ing, according to Chief Felker.

Between Lambertville and Easton, the two told him, they "hit two places." Felker said these cases will be turned over to New Jersey police.

Coming on from Easton, the pair stopped at Upper Mount Bethel Township, they told Felker. There they broke into the summer home of Leonard Harris, Brooklyn, N. Y., through a rear door.

When they left, Benson and Cope took with them a radio-phonograph, suit of clothes and a trench coat, according to Felker. They told of trying to take a cumbersome TV set, but changed their minds.

Just an hour and a half later the truck stopped in front of the Ducklo residence a few miles north of Stroudsburg on Route 611.

Benson broke in through a window. His discovery by Mrs. Ducklo, and his arrest by Cpl. Overgard near Mount Pocono followed.

Why Vote Next Tuesday?

Why vote in the primary election April 22?

Approximately 7,111,000 persons over 21-years of age lived in Pennsylvania in 1948 and asked themselves a similar question before the presidential election. Only 3,745,119 went to the polls. The remaining 3,375,815 either couldn't or wouldn't find enough of a reason to vote.

But Pennsylvania was not alone. Starvation of the ballot box was a nation-wide phenomenon. Of some 95,000,000 eligible Americans, only 48,836,579 voted. It seems almost incredible that a Democratic government can rest on such a narrow base of public support.

Those who stayed away from the polls in Pennsylvania and elsewhere helped brand us as being only half-hearted about civic responsibilities and the conduct of our government. They also gave some credence to the belief held in many foreign nations that we preach democracy abroad without practicing it at home.

To men who love liberty, those who starve the ballot box are no less despicable than those who stuff it. Ballot boxes starved or stuffed result in false elections. They set false government on wrong courses. They place great power into the hands of little groups.

Small elections are big opportunities for those who are incompetent and for those who are corrupt. The final result, however, can only be the death and decay of democracy. Today, the alternative to democracy is dead certain. It is the slavery of Communism, or its twin sister, Socialism.

We urge you to vote at the coming primary. We urge you to seek out your neighbors. The bread of democracy is the vote—a meager crumb for the magnificent fare freedom affords us. Our nation depends on a healthy, well-fed ballot box. Vote April 22.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—Navy flyers have been publicly accused by at least one Fair Deal propagandist, Drew Pearson, of hiding on the poop deck while the Air Force fights the war in Korea.

Secretary of the Navy Dan Kimball's recent trip to the Pacific, and his public utterances concerning the Navy's willingness to mix with the Communists, were mainly to restore the flagging morale of Navy airmen that resulted from the published accounts accusing them of not doing their share in the fighting.

The facts are that Navy airmen have blasted more targets in Korea, and fired more rockets at Communist troops and tanks, than the entire Pacific fleet fired at the Japanese during World War II.

Of all the combat air missions flown since the start of the Korean War, 40 per cent have been Navy and Marine missions.

Pearson's allegation that Navy flyers can't take on Communist airmen is based on the phony charge that the Russian MIG flies 150 miles an hour faster than the best jet flown by the Navy. The truth is that the MIG flies 45 miles an hour faster than the Navy J-48 jet, not 150.

Of more importance, the MIG is designed and flown as a fighter. Navy jets are built to operate from aircraft carriers, and are designed for a variety of missions including dive bombing. They are heavier, tougher and better armed than the MIGs. In addition, the J-48 jet engine now in use in Navy planes will be vastly improved by mid-summer, but even so Navy pilots still will not be called on to perform dog fight missions against Red pilots. That is the mission of Air Force pilots at the moment in Korea, a mission that is determined not by Navy airmen, who have never displayed any reluctance to tangle with the Reds, but by the United Nations command in Korea.

The Navy has been rocked back on its heels by the charge that it is not doing much fighting in Korea. Veteran airmen can't understand why the accusations are being published or who is behind them. And they are stunned when the accusation is based on a comparison of Navy and Red jets, since the same comparison reveals that Air Force jets are inferior to the MIGs in many respects. Yet Air Force pilots manage to clobber

the Reds in dogfights daily.

Inter-service wrangling is at a minimum at the Pentagon now. Pearson's attempts to stir up trouble will only damage the nation's security. And it is especially dangerous at this point, when jet engines are undergoing combat tests and production experts are working overtime to iron out the bugs and to secure the best fighting machine for all service flyers. At present, the Navy and Air Force exchange jet engines constantly. Experts in both services test and fly jets produced under the supervision of the other air arm. In fact the one place where service integration works best is in Navy and Air Force jet engine procurement.

Despite this, efforts are being made to destroy this cooperation. The results have been a lowering of Navy flying morale with the resultant trepidation on the part of parents of Navy flyers in Korea who read the phony allegations and have no way of determining the truth. For their sake the Navy should be permitted to tell the story of its jet fighters in Korea. They are capable of handling anything the Communists toss at them, but Defense department restrictions prohibit a counter attack on the Navy's phony critics.

Recently the House of Representatives deleted from the Defense department bill, funds for the construction of another super aircraft carrier. One is already under construction. The Joint Chiefs of Staff authorized the Navy to start construction of the carrier. To the Pentagon's surprise, the House turned down the request. The Navy is bound to abide by the Congressional decision and in lieu of another super carrier, probably will place two World War II carriers on full duty.

Both of the nation's top field military commanders, Gen. Matthew Ridgway and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, have sought additional aircraft carriers for their respective theaters. In rejecting the Navy's plea for another super carrier, members of Congress did considerable soul searching.

It is difficult for Congressmen to ignore the advice of competent military authorities who appear before appropriations committees. They are the first to admit this, and the first to offer prayers that they are right when rejecting pleas from the men charged with the nation's defense.

Two out of every three persons in West Virginia are supported directly or indirectly by the coal industry.

Back in Business

Eggs and pork are two items on the housewife's shopping list that lately have been dropping back to price levels she can afford.

Things were beginning to look better for people, say, who like a hearty breakfast of ham and eggs.

But, cheese it, boys, the cops! The Agriculture Department says it now will start buying up pork and eggs.

Why? To prop up the prices.

Examine Examiners

Psychiatric examinations have been suggested to determine the leadership aptitudes of the heads of all French political parties.

In view of the insecurity of French public officials this makes sense. A fellow is inclined to fret if he knows his job is going to be taken away from him momentarily.

Hippolyte Martel, president of the Federation of the Good People of France, who made the suggestion, would go a step further.

He would have a panel of citizens examine the psychiatrists before they start examining the politicians.

Who would screen the panel of citizens, H. Martel does not say.

Campaign by Silence

The leadership principle developed by Mussolini and Hitler was based upon the Nietzschean idea of the Superman. Their concept was that some men are endowed with qualities that are beyond the human. They are in fact men-gods.

Under the leadership principle, the evidence of such superiority is that it exists. It was never necessary for Hitler to explain why he was the leader; it was sufficient that he was the leader. He asserted it.

In the United States, this leadership principle has never been accepted. Americans have never, even as regards George Washington, been willing that one man is so far above his contemporaries that he stands alone and aloof.

History might do it for a man's reputation, as it has for Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, but the man himself could not assert that it was so while he lived.

It is important to take this into consideration in relationship to the plan of General Eisenhower to be silent on current problems until after he shall have been nominated. The assumption that it is possible to campaign by silence can only be an assertion of the leadership principle, namely, that General Eisenhower is a Superman, over and above all other men and that he need make no explanations with regard to his desire to be President. If General Eisenhower's managers sold him that idea, they have done him a grave injustice, because no man, in the United States, can be placed on such a pedestal. General Eisenhower, if he wants the Presidency, will have to explain what he believes, what he proposes to do, what he favors, what he opposes. Otherwise, men will say that he fears to speak out.

The suggestion has been made that when General Eisenhower comes to this country on June 1, he will go to Abilene, Kansas, where he will sit, waiting for delegations. Those who manage his campaign forget that a hundred or more newsmen, photographers, radio newscasters, etc., will also be camping on his front yard, and that these men—and there will be a few women among them—will be asking questions daily and will be telephoning and telegraphing stories to their wire services and their newspapers and they will be speaking over the radio.

Abilene will become a busy spot for news, if Eisenhower settles there for a month. No politician will reach that town without the reporters knowing what he is there for.

And these reporters will ask the General lots of interesting questions. For instance, a Southern reporter might want to know what General Eisenhower thinks of a national, compulsory FEPC. The General might answer that that should be left to the states, but such an answer would get him into hot water with large segments of the Northern population.

A CIO reporter might ask him what he proposes to do with the Taft-Hartley Law, or national legislation for increased safety in mines, or whether cost-of-living escalator clauses should be compulsory.

Texas, California and Louisiana reporters will want his views on tideland oil.

An A. F. of L. reporter might inquire into Eisenhower's ideas concerning the arresting of the inflation and the relationship of GATT (an international trade and tariff agreement) to certain American industries which under such tariff arrangements cannot compete with European industries exporting into the American market.

Some of us who are interested in foreign affairs might put a proposition such as this to Eisenhower:

Granted that the United States should give aid to nations with which we are associated, should that aid be granted on the basis of their necessities or on the basis of our capabilities? With a budget reaching $100,000,000,000 how much aid can we afford to grant without impairing our own economy? With a depreciated dollar, down to 53 cents, based on a 1935-39 average, can we afford further to depreciate our dollar by increasing our national debt and lowering our purchasing power?

The next President of the United States, whoever he may be, will have to deal with that one problem every day that he is in the White House. It is the crucial question of American survival and it cannot be dodged because the budget forces it upon us. Every candidate should be asked to discuss this, so that the people may judge how each one stands on it. Silence adds no wisdom to that.

Al Shean, famous as the partner of Mr. Gallagher, was also the man responsible for making Harpo Marx a silent comedian. Shean scripted the first vaudeville act for the then-unknown Marx Brothers, and inadvertently forgot to write in a part for Harpo. When Harpo indignantly called the omission to his attention, Shean hastily explained, "I did it on purpose. I want you to play in pantomime. I've got a feeling you'll be terrific." Mr. Shean didn't know how right he was!

Incidentally, one of the first towns to see the new Marx Brothers turn was Waukegan. In the orchestra pit, a kid named Kubelsky played the fiddle, and doubled up with laughter every time Groucho opened his mouth. Today, some thirty years later, Kubelsky is still laughing at Groucho. Now, however, he is known as Jack Benny.

Hollywood — "Any time there's hell to be got on a picture," said Henry Weinberger, "I'm the guy that gets it."

Henry belongs to that fraternity of leather-lunged gents, the assistant directors. They bellow "Quiet!" when a take is about to start. They see that visitors don't trip over cables—if they haven't previously shoed visitors off the set.

They notify the actors when to report for work next day. They notify the front office if the actor's are late. They attend to such tiny details as this: On "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" set the other day, where I met Henry, Hildegarde Neff did not have make-up on her hands when the scene was ready to start.

"Why didn't she?" Director Henry King asked Weinberger as a body-makeup woman daubed Hildegarde's hands with light-softening pancake.

"Because she'd have got the make-up on her black dress while she was waiting," Henry returned promptly. "You've got to have the answers," he told me a little later.

"I'm the heavy," he said. "If I'm associated with a good picture, there are enough guys around to take the bows."

Here I am, writing about Henry Weinberger, when I suppose I really should be sorry at him. He'd broken up my interview with Miss Neff—just so she could go to work acting in a movie—

Slogan for Ike Eisenhower

I realize that leaving NATO and SHAPE with any idea of entering the White House is like leaving a steam train to take a dip in a barrel of hot oil. I know I am swapping blood pressures in midstream. But I am doing it in good conscience and with a deep appreciation of the high honor of being considered worthy of the people's consideration.

Very truly yours, IKE.

Dear Ike: Any man who thinks "inactive status" and being in an American political campaign are alike is a poor judge of movement. Never the less I must admit this is about the only mistake you ever made in diagnosing a battle. I hereby grant your request to become a bashful June bride in the political matrimonial stakes of 1952.

If you were a Democrat you would be as good as in. But as a Republican, you open the matter to grave doubt. Should you be nominated and win the election, you will have my sympathies. As general of the army a man gets glory and cheers. As President, what does he get? Probes, quiz, programs, interrupted Key West vacations and Republican editorials!

However, Ike you are a great American and have done a great job splendidly. Your country owes you much. Good luck and may the best man win.

Sincerely, HARRY.

P.S.—You call my attention to what the Giants did after a late start. I hate to remind you of what happened to them in the series.

State's Voting Rolls Drop To 4,700,383 For Primaries

Harrisburg, AP—A statewide registration survey showed yesterday a total of 4,700,383 voters are eligible to participate in Pennsylvania's April 22 primary election.

This figure represents a drop of 103,717 from the 1951 registration. The reduction is attributed largely to the annual check of registrants at the various county seats.

Under Pennsylvania's permanent registration system, a voter's name is dropped from the rolls when he fails to cast a ballot in the last two elections.

The 1952 Democratic registration figure disclosed the greatest decline from last year. The decline totaled 90,155. The Republican drop amounted to 11,429 persons.

The registration figures represented reports from 66 of the State's county election bureaus. The tabulation is still incomplete in Lackawanna County.

The 1952 registration figures compared to 1951:

	1952	1951
Republican	2,860,137	2,871,566
Democrat	1,855,487	1,945,642
Others	54,739	56,892
Total	4,770,363	4,874,100

The registration rolls were closed on March 1 for the April primary. The rolls will be reopened again after the primary for the Nov. 5 general election, with Sept. 13 as the last day to register.

(In Monroe County, the decline in registration was announced some time ago as 728—representing a loss of 670 Democrats, 44 Republicans, 13 non-partisans and one independent. Current registration figures are as follows: Democrats, 9,481; Republicans, 6,695; non-partisans, 1,460; independents, 36; Prohibitionists, 6; Progressive, 1; total, 16,379.)

Borough Okays Third Street Storm Sewer

Stroudsburg Council last night authorized the borough engineer and solicitor to proceed with final engineering and legal matters on a project to install adequate drainage from Fifth St. to Second St. on N. Third St.

This drainage problem, one of the more pressing in the borough, has on many occasions created flood waters which entered the Worthington Mower Co. plant and its grounds where it hampered operations.

Listed by the borough a year ago, it will now be pressed with whatever funds can be obtained under the budget at this time.

Bids will probably be authorized at the next regular meeting of council on May 7.

Engineer Edward C. Hess said that the drainage line, part of which will cross under Worthington Mower Co. property, will cost an estimated $5,350.

In order to catch and direct the water in drains, curb and guttering will be necessary as well as a new surface from Fifth St. to Second St. Cost of this phase of the project will be about $9,000, making the total project outlay $14,350.

Aviation Experts Recommend Increased Airline Service In State, Including Poconos

More and better air service to 26 Pennsylvania communities, including Mount Pocono—the Stroudsburgs—was recommended to the Pennsylvania Aeronautics Commission yesterday, the Associated Press said last night.

A report prepared by Kimball and Gill, Tarrytown, N. Y., aviation consultants, said that although Pennsylvania has achieved "important status" in air travel, there is room for improvement.

The Kimball and Gill report contained a wealth of material in support of airline service to the Poconos prepared by the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce.

In addition, verbal testimony was given by R. LeRoy Dengler, of Mount Pocono, before the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington during the hearing on All American Airlines request for renewal of its Pennsylvania permit.

Mr. Dengler's testimony was entered with Attorney George G. Shafer as his counsel. Dengler is president of Mount Pocono Airport Authority and Mr. Shafer its chief counsel.

"We are confident that merely within the confines of Pennsylvania there is a local air transportation market which has barely been touched—that today's passenger volumes reflect just a fraction of traffic which lies ahead," the report said.

STC Seminar Scheduled To Open June 23

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will offer its third seminar workshop beginning June 23 at the college.

The seminar will continue for three weeks and is open to graduates, in-service teachers and supervisors of elementary schools.

The workshop will be concerned with the implications in a recent bulletin (233B) on the "elementary course of study."

By means of morning and afternoon sessions the workshop enables trainees to earn three semester hours of credit in addition to those earned in the first two such seminars.

Included on the agenda will be lectures, research, demonstrations, exhibits, clinics, discussions and educational films.

Consultants for the program will be Marie C. Brown for teachers of kindergarten and grades 1 to 3 and Josephine Kerns for teachers of grades 4 to 6 and elementary supervisors.

One day will be devoted to an educational trip, probably to the Reading Science Museum and the Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival at Kutztown.

Persons interested in enrolling for the seminar workshop are asked to contact Dr. Nathan G. Meyer, head of the Department of Education, East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Air Force Recruiting Week Planned

The U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Service and the A. B. Wyckoff Department Store have joined forces in promoting Air Force Recruiting Week, April 19 to 26, in the Monroe and Pike County area.

Air Force Recruiting Week is designated to emphasize the need for volunteers to serve in the U. S. Air Force as airmen, aviation cadets, pilot observers, WAF (Women in the Air Force), nurses and medical specialists.

The theme being publicized nationally, was selected by the National Retail Dry Goods Association and the Department of the Air Force.

According to Arthur A. Widmer, advertising manager of Wyckoff's, the store will sponsor an attractive window display for the U. S. Air Force and in addition will offer Air Force information inside the store where patrons may obtain literature about the U. S. Air Force without cost.

Further details concerning this program can be obtained from the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, Stroudsburg Postoffice Building.

Lions of District 14-K to the number of 200 attended Deputy District Governor Sidney Effross night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel Tuesday night, all but two of the 21 clubs being represented.

Special honor was accorded District Governor Elton P. Hall, who was given a pen and pencil set by Lions International in recognition of the showing made by the district in membership gains during the annual Melvin Jones campaign in January. A three per cent gain was recorded. International Councilor Arthur J. Henry made the presentation. He said he had been deputy district governor when Mr. Hall was president of the Stroudsburg club and, the next year, he had appointed the local man deputy district governor for region B. From that office he went on to the district governorship. He said Mr. Hall performed great service in all instances.

Mr. Effross, on behalf of the regional clubs, presented Mr. Hall with a black onyx ring set with a diamond.

Mr. Effross introduced three employers of Mr. Hall, whose backing and cooperation made it possible for him to perform such service to Lionism, namely James H. Ottaway, publisher; Merle C. Ostrom, manager, and F. H. Brinkley of Ottaway newspapers and Radio Station WVPO.

Mr. Hall responded giving thanks for the courtesies accorded him. He said it was an honor to have the opportunity to serve. He added that he had tried hard to do a good job and he thanked all for the gifts presented to him. He said he was even more appreciative, however, for the greater gift that had been accorded to him, the friendship of a great many fine people.

President T. Manning Curtis of the local club opened the meeting, introducing Deputy Governor Effross, who presented Attorney Joseph O'Donnell, a Wilkes-Barre Lion, who acted as toastmaster.

Firman Bailey, county superintendent of schools of Lancaster, gave the main address. Robert Haigh, of the Stroudsburg club, served as song leader and Pat Reagle of the East Bangor club as pianist.

Members of Governor Hall's cabinet were presented and responded briefly. Among those called on were International Councilors Conrad Falvello, Arthur H. Naylor, Arthur J. Henry, George Smith, Paul Keller, Amos Strauss, zone chairmen, Harry Raymond, Bob Miller, Charles Scheer and others.

Clubs represented included Stroudsburg, Lansford, Bear Mountain, Barrett, Coaldale, Tobyhanna, Lehigh, Bath, Portland, Bushkill Valley, East Bangor, Richmond, Nazareth, Wilson Borough, West End, Pocono and Franklin Township.

A special guest accompanied former president Don Daugherty of Barrett, Mike McAndrew, 80 years of age.

In the main talk, Mr. Bailey declared that interest in one's community is a supreme duty of a citizen and the best definition of a community is that of a place wherein to grow. Lions Clubs, he pointed out afford opportunity for growth, and the club or the man, not growing, dies. On the other hand, the men who grow to full stature are the really distinguished citizens of the community.

Weller Denies He Accepted Appointment

Franklin E. Weller, past commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars, yesterday repudiated announcement of his appointment as chairman of the "Veterans for Eisenhower" in Monroe County.

Weller not only denied he had accepted such an appointment but emphasized that "the Veterans of Foreign Wars are not and never have been in politics—it is against our policy on all levels."

The Stroudsburg man said he had been contacted by Albert C. Ceres Jr., Harrisburg, organizer and State vice chairman of the Veterans for Eisenhower Committee.

Ceres, Weller said, called him and in a telephone conversation proposed Weller as the Veterans for Eisenhower chairman in Monroe County. The local veteran's leader said he recalled he had a lengthy conversation dealing largely with the trend of sentiment in this section.

Weller said yesterday he did not accept the appointment proposed by Ceres and that the announcement from Harrisburg came as a complete surprise yesterday.

The announcement was made in Harrisburg by Edwin F. Russell, Pennsylvania chairman, Citizens for Eisenhower.

Improved Coal Business Seen

New York (AP)—Coal prices have just about "scrapped bottom" and improved business is in sight, T. G. Gerow, president of the West Virginia Coal & Coke Corp., told stockholders yesterday.

Nevertheless, he warned the annual meeting, he does not look for a particularly good year for the company in its coal operations, although long-range prospects appear bright. The company's diversification of markets and mining operations and the potential demand for coal for steam generating plants are favorable factors, he asserted.

Supplying Hoists For Shrimp Boats Only One Phase Of Industry's Work

The fifth of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James B. Gaffney

Probably everyone in the western world is now aware that the shrimp boats are coming.

But how many realize that 90 percent of the fleet that docks and makes "dancin' tonight" possible, is equipped with machinery made in Stroudsburg?

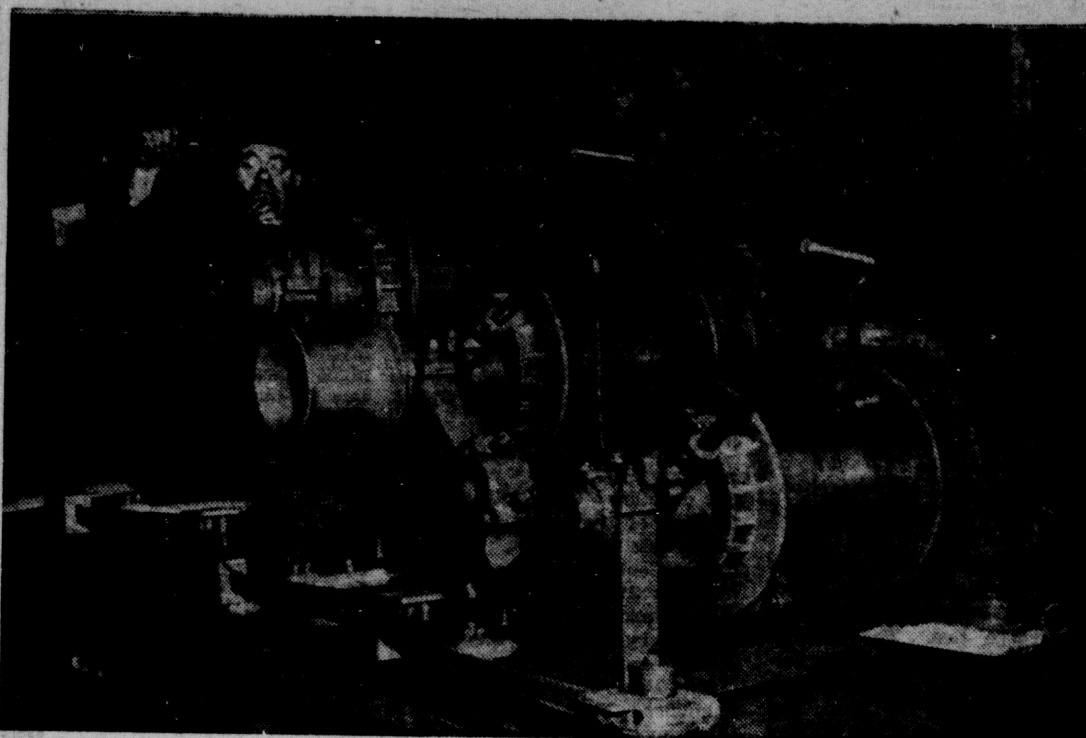

Stroudsburg Engine Works, located at 62 N. Third St., is the main supplier of hoists for the shrimp boat fleets, and because of the precision work, fine durable materials and workmanship that go into the expert making of this machinery, the shrimp industry is prospering today as never before in history.

Using such catchy phrases as "Built to stand abuse . . . under constant use!", "The fisherman's choice . . . is the Stroudsburg hoist!" . . . and "What has it got . . . that keeps it on top?", the local firm employs every means to continue as the leader in manufacturing hoists for the fleet, and has gained international recognition for its endeavors.

But making hoists for shrimp boats is not the only work being done at the local plant. They also build larger steam-driven hoisting engines; make a general line of concrete pipe form and do general machine work and repairs.

Established in 1902, the plant came under the ownership of James H. Groner and his son, J. Albert Groner in 1932. The elder partner has been with the concern for 47 years and his son came with the firm the year after he graduated from Wharton School of Commerce and Finance, University of Pennsylvania.

Employing 50 men, the company last year paid approximately $150,000 in wages and salaries, proving it, too, is another industry in this section which is contributing greatly to the economic stability of the Stroudsburgs and Monroe County.

ORISON W. SLUTTER, 740 Brown St., Stroudsburg, an assembler for the past eight years at Stroudsburg Engine Works Co., is shown inspecting a triple friction hoist that soon will be in operation on a shrimp boat cruising in southern waters. Currently this type equipment engulfs much of the production at the local plant, but general machine work and repairs also are contributed by 50 male employees.

Of paramount significance to Stroudsburg Engine Works is the hoisting machinery they built during World War Two for the U. S. Army Engineers. "It was like building a boat in the cellar," J. Albert Groner said. "When it was finished we had to take the doors off to get it out."

The equipment referred to was used to add another and gigantic lock to the three existing locks at the Sault Ste. Marie in St. Mary's River. This river connects Lake Superior with Lake Huron and vast quantities of wheat, iron ore, coal and cement passed through these locks for the eastern market.

Construction of this lock brought up the problem that nothing was available on the Great Lakes in the way of a floating derrick or crane that could install or remove lock gates for the purpose of repairs, or in case of an accident.

With this in mind, the Chief Engineer's office in Washington decided to build a huge floating derrick with a working capacity of 250 tons and the Stroudsburg firm was called on to build the hoists.

The machinery built by the local plant was installed in the huge floating barge, and on December 16, 1944 the 600 ton hull was launched. The work that followed proved decisively that the equipment furnished by the local firm more than stood the trial, for in the final test the boom was raised and lowered handling a 312 ton load at a minimum and maximum radii.

Other contributions to the World War II effort included construction of hoists for floating cranes used to load and unload ships and for shipbuilding and even today the plant does some subcontracting for government defense work.

Stroudsburg Engine Works hoists are found in practically every southern state bordering on the Atlantic or Gulf of Mexico. They also are used in California, Mexico, Panama and at present three machines are being constructed for shipment to Brazil, South America.

The newest and most efficient fishing vessels in the southern fleet continue to be equipped with the "Famous Stroudsburg". Single, double and triple friction drum hoists are manufactured here for use on these ships. Shipping weight varies from 500 pounds to as much as 2200 pounds.

These hoists are capable of lifting up to 2,000 pounds and stand heavy duty work, fulfilling a multitude of chores.

And so, into the far reaches of the world goes the name "Stroudsburg," publicizing this region in ever increasing numbers and attesting to its industrial might. Known chiefly for its attraction to vacationers and honeymooners,

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Everybody was grumping about the rainy spell, and yearning for nice weather. So we have a beautiful day and what happens—is everybody filled with joy and energy and an ambition to really get their teeth in their work?

Of course not, they're grumping around about the necessity of having to work at all on such a day, meant for relaxing.

Truly, I think we're at our most perverse and difficult at this time of year. Everybody seems to be rebelling at schedules at the very time that the schedules themselves tighten up for the last big push before summer.

Nobody wants to go to meetings, for the programs the program chairmen have saved until last because they're the best. Nobody wants to take on any more responsibilities at the very time that nominating committees are trying to round up the slate for next year.

Ornery we are, and feeling abused and put-upon and harassed. And don't deserve our blessings.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:05 a.m.

The fun minutes were read by Mrs. Lucy Eilenberger and one new member was welcomed to the class. Four birthdays were recognized as follows: Mrs. Amelia Scheller, Mrs. Isabel Gaditis, Miss Anne Fenne and Mrs. Schmidt.

Games were enjoyed. Mrs. Alice Shupp was the winner of the Bible quiz and Mrs. Schmidt the package game. The door prize went to Miss Fenne.

Postpone Sale

The rummage sale planned for this week by the Mothers Club of the YMCA has been postponed until a later date, it was announced yesterday.

"I'm certainly glad I was listening to this morning's radio broadcast," Edna Mae Saylor remarked yesterday. "Otherwise I'd never have known what hit me." It seems the announcement was barely made about calling "400" and telling the operator the radio telephone special as advertised, when Edna's board lighted like a Christmas tree.

First one to call was Mrs. Andy Farris of 125 Barnum street, East Stroudsburg, who reported the special to be our beautiful, all-steel velocipedes. In the 16-inch size these are selling for $15.95, a full five dollars less than their regular price. What could be nicer "In the Good Old Summertime" than to see young Americans with sturdy little legs pedaling sturdy "trikes" down the street as they set out to see this wonderful world of ours?

Frequent calls come in from mothers desiring inexpensive pastimes for bedridden boys and girls and I usually include in the package several of our jigsaw puzzles, showing children and customs of other lands. These are splendidly suited to the need for they cost only fifteen cents apiece, are time consuming but not difficult to work, and are instructive. The reading material on the back of each is, as one mother reported, "very interesting, as well as being a little extra practice reading." Eight different puzzles comprise the set, and they are so popular Florence Predmore tells us she will have to re-order them. Keep them in mind, Mothers, for the family "rainy day game chest."

Also recommended for convalescent children are the Quizle books, at fifty cents, keyed to various age groups . . . the twenty-five cent books that combine coloring and tracing exercises . . . the books of pictures that can be drawn by going from one numbered dot to another in a straight line . . . and the "Cray-off" sets. These, at $1, contain plastic pictures and colored sticks to fill them in. Different from the usual "crayon," this material wipes off easily so that the picture may be done again in a new way. And don't overlook the charming Little Golden Books at 25c. Some of these have jigsaw puzzles set into the back cover. A busy mind is as important to a sick child as a well-rested body. And at such a time fun must fit the budget. Wyckoff's has the answer!

School Board To Explain Opposition To Jointure At Conference With PTA

from outlying districts, it was already practicing a jointure in effect, though not in name.

Hill said the board had plans for increasing facilities when it became necessary.

The board and the PTA representatives then came to agreement that both taxpayers and the interests of district school children were the primary considerations.

Flory asked if the board would advise PTA of the result of its study on jointure, and the special session was agreed upon.

Other school board business: Permanent teaching contracts were awarded to Bettje Goodall of the music department and Harold Kramer, commercial department.

The following personnel were approved for the playground: Lewis Hastie, director, and Frank Presty, Delores Sell, Donald Transue and Thomas Foley.

Miss Ruth Black, commercial department, was granted a year's sabbatical leave to complete work toward her M.A. degree at Cornell University.

The secretary was instructed to advertise for bids for about 400 tons of No. 1 buckwheat coal for the school year of 1952-1953.

Bills in the amount of $1,390.20 were approved for payment.

The board served notice that persons riding horses or driving cars on the stadium field will be prosecuted. Recently, a board member said, a car left 200 feet of 18-inch-deep ruts across the field. The board gave instructions for the field to be patrolled.

J. C. Penney Company's Golden Jubilee Opens Today

Max Stadfeld, manager of J. C. Penney Company, announced today the formal opening tomorrow of the company's Golden Jubilee. "This is a great occasion for us, a time for celebration," said Mr. Stadfeld. "In just 50 years this company has grown from a single, tiny store in Southwestern Wyoming to a great retail merchandising organization—the largest of its kind in the world—with more than 1,600 stores and 70,000 associates serving nearly 40 million people.

"That's a monumental achievement in which all of us can take pride. For where else, but in our own United States of America, could such an achievement be possible? In the words inscribed on our medallion, the Penney Company has grown—is growing—with this Nation.

"Ours is a success story, not of one man alone but of many men. Early in his career our founder, Mr. J. C. Penney, realized that he would succeed only if others found success with him. Eventually he became known as the 'man with a thousand partners'—and thereby pioneered a profit-sharing idea which contributed much to the company's success.

"Thoughtful consideration for customers, associates, suppliers and stockholders always has been a Penney Company objective; also

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg High Schools lift the lid on the 1952 baseball season locally today and the campaign will hold the headlines until the early days of October, when football moves to the front. The Cavaliers play host to Port Jervis at the East Stroudsburg Playground today, at 4 p. m. The Mountaineers take on a highly regarded Emmaus High contingent at the same time, in a Lehigh Valley League game, at Gordon Giffels Field. The Eastburg-Port Jervis tussle is a non-league affair.

Harry Werkheiser, athletic coach at Pocmon High School, did the catching for Harry Schaeffer at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College in 1947. Schaeffer is now a member of the New York Yankees. Joe Penczak, third baseman with Peekskill during the early years of the North Atlantic League, and later with Allentown, of the class "B" Interstate League, suffered a fractured ankle while sliding home the other day. Joe is currently a member of the Portsmouth, Va. entry in the Piedmont League. Reports indicate that he'll be out of action for at least five weeks.

Hal Sweeney, former outfielder with Lebanon, of the North Atlantic League, was recently optioned to Winston-Salem by Columbus, Ga., of the class "A" South Atlantic League. Winston-Salem is entered in the class "B" Carolina League. Carlos Bernier, outfielder who made such a deep impression on the Stroudsburg Poconos in spring training in 1950 while playing with Bristol, Conn., of the class "B" Colonial League, got off to a flying start with Hollywood, of the Pacific Coast League, this season.

The Puerto Rican fly chaser threw two runners out from center field, one at third base and the other at the plate. However, Bernier was hit in the head by a throw from the rival pitcher as he streaked for first base after tapping an infield roller late in the game. Adding insult to injury, Bernier was called out for running wide of the base path. Barney Lutz, former Carbondale pilot of the NAL, is managing Fort Lauderdale in the class "B" Florida International League this season.

Charley Silvera, opening day catcher with the New York Yankees, is a close friend of Mike Rubish's, both having served together in the Army during World War Two. Mike is the very popular golf pro at Glen Brook Country Club. Jim Young, the gentleman who broadcast all of the Lebanon, NAL, games in 1949 and for part of 1950, is now seeing service with the Army in Korea, according to reports Young has a major network position awaiting him when he departs from the service next year.

Last night's baseball meeting at the George N. Kemp American Legion Post was limited to the showing of the 1951 World Series movies and a discussion on Junior American Legion baseball. The reason for moving the Stroudsburg-Emmaus contest from its originally scheduled date tomorrow to today is that Emmaus has scheduled a school dance tomorrow. The Monroe County League opens its baseball season next Thursday.

Plans are currently being discussed concerning the possibility of holding an all-sports banquet in the very near future at the YMCA. Reports coming out of the St. Louis Browns' farm system indicate that Marv Jones, former Carbondale catcher, will be turned into a first baseman sometime during the coming campaign. The reports further reveal that the hard hitting Jones is finding it almost impossible to master the mechanics of catching, as taught in the better minor leagues.

Plenty of the area's athletes are expected to be on hand for the Ham and Oyster supper to be served by the Jackson Township Volunteer Fire Co., at Jackson Township school on Saturday. Serving is scheduled to take place between 5 and 9 p.m. Jackie Swartz, former three-letter athlete at ESSTC, had a record turnout of 75 baseball candidates at Carbondale's Benjamin Franklin High school this year. This is the time of year that reports would be filtering in from Maryland concerning the possibilities of the Stroudsburg Poconos, if the North Atlantic League would have remained in operation.

Bowling banquets become a nightly occurrence at this time of year, and the present season is no exception. Coaches throughout the area were either taking in the fight and a baseball game via television or radio last night, as several telephone calls revealed. Les Carlton, Daily Record photographer, is walking on air today following two straight victories by his beloved St. Louis Browns, over the Detroit Tigers. Alden "Red" Fetherman is probably the only athlete to captain all three teams at Stroudsburg High. The outstanding athlete was co-captain of the football team; captain of the basketball squad, and is co-captain with Jack Newell of the baseball contingent.

Eastburg, Stroudsburg Launch Diamond Campaigns

Cavaliers Play Host To Port Jervis

East Stroudsburg High School opens the 1952 baseball season today at the East Stroudsburg Playground, as a strong Port Jervis High diamond contingent invades Pennsylvania from its New York stronghold. The contest, scheduled for nine innings, is listed to get underway at 4 p.m.

The Cavaliers, using today's encounter as experience for the tough Lehigh-Northampton League grind ahead, will feature Ray Steele in the pitching role for the first four or five innings, with Joe Antonucci and Frank Ciofalo expected to follow in that order. All are right handed tossers.

According to reports from Port Jervis, today's visiting nine will use a trio of hurlers, each for three innings. Irv Rothchild will open and in turn is expected to be followed by John Barbarino and Dick Harford.

Coach Jack Kist announced last night that Harold Litts would open behind the plate for East Stroudsburg, while the remainder of the infield features John "Juice" Arnst at first base, Jack Sommers, second base; Paul "Candy" Miller, shortstop, and Don France, third base.

The outfield will feature Harold White in left field; Marlin "Ducky" Martz, center field, and George Litts, right field. With the exception of White, the opening band of Cavaliers is a veteran aggregation.

If the contest goes in favor of East Stroudsburg, Kist expects to substitute freely throughout the lineup and not on the pitching mound alone.

Leon Alberts is expected to see considerable work behind the plate, while Jim Kintz and Bob Kupiszewski break into the infield if the opportunity presents. Dick Merring may see service in either the infield or outfield.

Dick Transue, originally slated to open in left field, will be lost to the squad for about a week with a strep-throat.

'Sugar' Pleased With Performance

Chicago (AP) — "My, oh my, did my boy look sharp—makes me have thoughts of going after Joe Maxim's light heavy title," said George Gaimford, jovial manager of Sugar Ray Robinson.

Robinson, swallowed up by a tidal wave of well-wishers in his dressing room last night, chirped: "I'm not interested in Maxim."

"All right," said big George, "then I'll fight the guy." Robinson, himself, thought that he looked pretty sharp against Graziano—probably at his best for maybe a year. He was unmarked and calm as he sat there, beads of sweat rolling off his body and flashbulbs popping in his face.

Robinson Ends Graziano's Title Bid In Third Round

By Charles Dunkley
Chicago (AP) — Champion "Sugar Ray" Robinson, a boxer turned ferocious slugger, knocked out challenger "Rocky" Graziano with a pulverizing left and right in 1:53 of the third round to retain his middleweight title before a standing room crowd of 22,264 in the Chicago Stadium last night.

Robinson, who weighed 157½, elected to slug it out toe-to-toe from the outset of the fierce scrap and ended it with incredible swiftness after Graziano himself had felled the champion midway in the third.

Seconds after Graziano had belted Robinson to the floor along the ropes with a ponderous right-hand smash to the head, Robinson unleashed a lightning

Graziano, counted out by Referee Tommy Gilmore, by game instinct struggled to his feet and with helpless waving fists tried to continue the battle. He was restrained by Gilmore.

Robinson was stung to fury by his no-count knockdown by Graziano. Robinson followed with a crunching short right which landed flush on Rocky's chin. Graziano sagged into the ropes and then his body crashed to the floor of the ring.

It was the third time in Graziano's flamboyant ring career he had been knocked out. Tony Zale, former middleweight champion, had administered two previous knockouts.

The previous record indoor fight crowd was 23,322 at the stadium in 1932 when Jack Dempsey boxed "King" Levinaky.

Graziano, who reportedly went into the ring at 162 after stripping naked to weigh-in at noon at 159½, found himself confronted by a slugger instead of the fancy dancing master that Robinson is supposed to be.

Time after time in the short-lived bout, Robinson stepped right into Graziano with crunching lefts and rights that reddened Rocky's face and body.

Graziano in both the first and second rounds, sent Robinson back-peddling with powerhouse, whistling right-hand smashes to the head. But Robinson was ever alert to move in with a stinging series of punches.

Dodgers Run Over Braves In Wild Tilt

Boston, (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers pounded out 20 hits and took full advantage of seven errors yesterday while out-slugging the Boston Braves 14-8 for their second straight win of the new National League season.

Roy Campanella continued his heavy bombardment of the Boston pitchers by driving in four runs with a single, double and his first homer of the campaign. "Duke" Snider added to the opposing hurlers' woes by connecting for singles on the first five of his six batting tries.

Chase Starter

Max Surkont, the Boston starter, faced only six batters and gave the Dodgers four runs on three hits and two bases on balls. The Braves, however, collected three runs against starter Chris Van Cuyk in their side of the first, on Walker Cooper's bases-loaded double off the right-center fence. But after three frames, the Dodgers had an 11-3 lead and were able to coast the rest of the way.

Campanella's two-bagger drove in two runs in the first inning. Billy Cox was on base when the burly backstop homered off Ernie Johnson in the second session.

Errors by Sid Gordon and Billy Reed, the rookie second baseman, played an important part in the five unearned runs the Dodgers gained in the third, during which Campanella was hit on the wrist by a pitched ball.

Senators Edge Red Sox, 4-3

Washington, (AP) — Floyd Baker's base-loaded single off Ellis Kinder with two out in the eleventh inning scored Irv Noren from third base with the run that gave Washington a 4-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox last night.

Ellis Kinder, Boston's third pitcher, was the victim of Baker's blow. With one out in the eleventh, Noren doubled to left and Mickey Vernon was passed intentionally. Frank Campos also walked to fill the bases and after Cass Michaels fouled out, Baker broke up the game.

Distance
Julio Moreno went the distance for the Senators, giving up eight hits and striking out nine. He was clipped for two unearned runs in the ninth when the Red Sox tied the score at 3-3 on Billy Goodman's double with two out.

Boston . . . 100 000 002 00—3 8 0

Browns Rally To Win Second Straight From Tigers, 5-4

Detroit, (AP) — Manager Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Browns yanked two other players for pinchhitters but let pitcher Tommy Byrne hit for himself in a seventh inning rally and the strategy paid off with a 5-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers yesterday.

Byrne, showing the control he lacked last year, gave up seven hits in pitching Bill Veeck's Browns to their second straight victory.

In the seventh after "Hank" Arft tripped and Leo Thomas was hit by one of loser Art Houtte-man's pitches, Hornsby yanked catcher Clint Courtney for Earl Rapp. But Rapp popped up. Byrne took his turn and doubled to left for the first run. Pinch-hitter Dick Kryhoski, a Tiger last year, batted for the second base man and singled home two more runs.

What proved to be the winning run came in the eighth inning. Tom Wright beat out an infield hit, George Schmees pushed him home with a triple and Arft's double to center scored Schmees.

Giants Down Phillies On Elliott's Two Circuit Blows

New York, (AP) — Bob Elliott blasted two home runs in a sensational New York debut to help the Giants celebrate their season opener with a 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies last night in the first after dark major league baseball inaugural in New York history.

Chisox Bow To Indians

Chicago, (AP) — Rookie outfielder Jim Frideley's first major league homer and Bob Lemon's three-hit pitching sneaked the Cleveland Indians to their second straight win over the Chicago White Sox, 1-0, yesterday.

Frideley's second-inning smash into the upper left field stands ruined the four-hit performance by Chicago's Joe Dobson.

Only once after that did Dobson waver.

That was in the ninth, when Luke Easter's double and two walks filled the bases for Cleveland with two out, but Joe got out of the jam when Ray Boone forced Easter to third.

Bushkill To Drill

Bushkill—Dan Eppley, manager of the Bushkill entry in the Pocono Mountains League, announced last night that the next team practice would be held here tomorrow and not today as previously announced. The drill is scheduled to get under way at 5:30 p. m.

Mountaineers Home With Emmaus High

Stroudsburg High opens its 1952 baseball season one day earlier than expected, when the reportedly strong Emmaus High contingent moves into Gordon Giffels field for a Lehigh Valley League contest at 4 p.m. The battle was advanced one day at the request of Emmaus, who ran into a case of conflicting dates.

Coach Jerry Stulgaitis announced last night that co-captain Alden "Red" Fetherman, beginning his fourth year of high school baseball, would be on the hill for the Mountaineers.

In case the hard working right hander should falter along the way, a pair of right handed sophomores will be ready to take over in relief, in the persons of Dick Schuster and Harold Hogrelus.

Lineup

Stulgaitis has arranged his lineup in such a manner that Paul "Doc" Lim will leadoff and play second base, co-captain Jack Newell will hit second and handle the third base chores. Fetherman will hit third, while center fielder Gene Caskie handles the center field duties and bats in the clean up spot.

First baseman Floyd Williams will bat fifth, while Karl Weingartner takes over the shortstop berth for the second straight year and his sixth. Layton DeHaven will catch and bat seventh, with Al Adelmann in right field and eighth in the batting order. Jim "Red" Makosky will handle the left field duties and hit ninth.

Dick Campeotto is the reserve catcher, with Benny Miller and Carl Hagerty filling the roles of substitute outfielders. Bob Hintze is the reserve infielder.

Emmaus annually presents a strong baseball contingent and this year isn't expected to be any exception.

Stroudsburg returns to action next Thursday, at Catsaqua.

Lakers Dump Knicks, 82-77

New York (AP) — The poised Minneapolis Lakers held the New York Knickerbockers to two field goals during the last six minutes last night for a 82-77 victory to take a 2-1 lead in the National Basketball Association playoff finals.

Leads Attack

With George Mikan hitting 26 points for scoring honors, the Lakers ended New York's home-floor winning streak at 23 games. "Time and again the Knicks tried to run Minneapolis off the court with their blistering fast-breaking game, but the veteran Lakers, who have won two NBA titles in the last three years, refused to become rattled.

'Rocky' Heard Final Count

Chicago (AP) — "Rocky" Graziano sat on the table in his dressing room and said:
"That guy's a great fighter. There's no question about that."

He was paying tribute to Ray Robinson, the middleweight champion who had just knocked him out.

Things had moved at a fast and furious pace in the ring upstairs in the jammed Chicago Stadium.

Review
Rocky reviewed the short evening:
"I heard the count," he told newsmen. "I heard eight, nine, ten. The count went so fast. It was hard getting up. I thought I had enough time."

"I told myself 'I'm going to win this fight,'" Rocky recalled. "I'm going to beat this guy. This guy isn't so good."

"I guess I started getting a little wild."

HAYNES WHEEL ALIGNMENT SERVICE

It Saves You Money!

Are We Talking About YOUR Car?

- Do your tires wear unevenly —leave bumps on the tread?
- Does your car have a tendency to pull to the right or left?
- Do you constantly have to "fight" the steering wheel to drive in a straight line?

If any one of these conditions applies to your car, IT IS OUT OF ALIGNMENT AND NEEDS THIS SERVICE.

Thousands of Miles More Mileage from Your Tires When Your Car is in Proper Alignment!

SAFER Driving! EASIER Driving!

It's a fact that rough winter weather puts your car out of alignment, causing tires to be literally dragged sideways along the road, scraping off thousands of miles of precious tread! And it's a fact that a car, properly aligned on our modern John Bean Alignment Equipment, is a safer car—easier to drive! Tire savings alone will pay for the modest charge many times over.

H. C. Edwards Faces Fight For Election

Harold C. Edwards, Stroudsburg attorney and delegate to the Democratic convention in Chicago from this district in 1944, is again seeking election to this post with party endorsement in the 15th District composed of Monroe, Carbon and Northampton Counties.

Despite an agreement made and ratified by the party providing Northampton County is always to have one delegate and that the other is to be rotated between Carbon and Monroe—giving Monroe the turn this year—Mr. Edwards is faced with opposition by Paul Ruyak, of Bethlehem.

A similar agreement was made and ratified by the Republican party groups of the congressional district, also always giving Northampton County one delegate and alternating the other between Carbon and Monroe.

Basis for both agreements is that without such an arrangement, neither Carbon nor Monroe County could be assured of representation at the national convention because voter registration in Northampton exceeds that of Monroe and Carbon combined.

On the Republican side this agreement has worked out satisfactorily this year. Kenneth Kressler will be the delegate from Northampton and since it is Monroe's turn, B. K. Williams will be the delegate from this county. There is no opposition to Williams.

Ruyak, however, entered the battle to make "a third" in the Democratic race. Everett Kent, a former congressman, has been selected to represent Northampton County.

Since Ruyak comes from a heavy registration center in Bethlehem and Northampton County the odds are heavy against Edwards. The City of Bethlehem alone has more registered voters than Monroe County in the Democratic party.

The battle to send a Monroe County man to the Democratic national convention, party leaders said yesterday, rests in a drive to get out a maximum vote here next Tuesday, April 22.

Mr. Edwards has been endorsed by Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Easton), who called Ruyak with a request he withdraw. Walter said here Tuesday night Ruyak "has not seen fit to do so."

Mr. Kent, the other candidate for delegate, is sticking by the party endorsement of Mr. Edwards, party leaders said yesterday.

Edwards has been active as a leader in the Democratic party for the past 35 years.
